Far Right or Far Left, Liberties Union Defends the Barricades

The burning of a KKK cross or the burning of an American flag are equally symbolic and equally entitled to the protection of the First Amendment.

That's the stand taken by the American Civil Liberties Union, whose 500 Mercer County members find themselves in the news twice this week.

On Wednesday, three men accused of cross-burning in Princeton, were scheduled to come before Borough Magistrate Theodore Tams for a preliminary hearing. The ACLU announced early in March that it would help the trio, and, at their request, provide a lawyer for two of the three who were without legal representation.

Since then, the men have declared that they no longer want ACLU help, reportedly because one of the lawyers who agreed to take the case was black.

On the lighter side the ACLU is holding a fund-raising dance this Friday at Trinity Church hoping to reach the $500 raised last year. It all funnels in to state headquarters in Newark.

Eye-eyed guardians of rights and the proper administration of law, the ACLU found itself in an embarrassing flummox over this dance. Donations will be asked and beer will be served. This means an organization needs a one-day liquor license, but somehow nobody in the ACLU was told in advance. Borough Police Chief Peter J. McCroham saw news stories about the event, called the Rev. James Whittemore at Trinity and began to move legal wheels toward the one-day permit, which will arrive, everyone hopes, before delivery of the first keg of beer.

Defense of the KKK in alleged cross-burning surprises people who don't know about the ACLU and dismays some war-horse liberals who've been involved with the organization for years.

"We have traditionally defended symbolic protest," explains Mrs. William Hammond, Princeton staff investigator for the ACLU. "Mostly of course, it's flag-burning or people wearing black armbands, but it doesn't matter which side you're on: being a watchdog over the liberties of EVERYONE is what the ACLU is all about. You can't pick and choose who gets to speak or act."

Mrs. Hammond says the ACLU here in Princeton, and state offices in Newark, have received phone calls that are perilously near "hate" calls from liberals who don't think the ACLU should have taken on the KKK defense.

Most ACLU action is on a steady, year-round, watch-dog level. One of the newest projects is "court-watching," which began in January.

"We're only lay observers," Mrs. Hammond explains, "but we take down everything that happens in court, and we plan to send our information in June to the Office of the Administrator of the Court."

She adds that an attorney who often takes ACLU cases has stated that Municipal Court in the Borough of Princeton is one of the best-run in Mercer County, following correct procedures all the way.

"You see, in a municipal court,

TWO AND ONE
Board Vote Splits. George Fitzgerald with 1,123 votes and William Marvel with 1,089 are the Township victors in the school board election. Hannah Fox with 692 is the Borough winner.

In the Township, T. C. Allen came in third with 1,038 and George Hill fourth with 983. Edna Hunter in the Borough received 584.

The Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fox were backed by the Committee for Princeton Schools, generally regarded as pro-administration. Dr. Marvel had the support of CARES, the anti-administration organization.

Tuesday's election, in which 30% of the voters went to the polls, keeps the school board's balance on the pro-administration side. If any two CARES had won, the balance would have tipped against the administration and Superintendent Philip E. McPherson.

Three board members who frequently vote against the administration, all come up for re-election next year. They are Winthrop Pike, Kathleen Edwards and Philip Cruickshank.

Next President? The question of who would be board president was raised on Tuesday night after the results became known. Dr. Henry Fox is a possible candidate himself, said he though Dr. Robert Bierman would make a good president. Dr. Bierman was not present at the time.

Reorganization of the board on election of 17 new president to succeed John Marks, who now runs off the board, will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in Community Park School.

Tuesday's election brought out more than three times as many voters as the February vote on the $7 million school

The Score

Here are the winning totals in Tuesday's school board election. There are two winners in the Township, one in the Borough.

Borough

*Hannah Fox — 692
Edna Hunter — 584

Township

*Geo. Fitzgerald — 1,123
*William Marvel — 1,089
T. C. Allen — 1,038
George Hill — 983

In that election, only 1,021 voters — 8.9% of the entire community — went to the polls.

The 30% of this year is a higher percentage than last year, when both budget and candidates were voted on in the same election.

This year in the Borough, 1,276 of the 4,445 registered voters (29%) cast ballots for school board members. In the Township, 2,117 of the 6,924 registered voters (31%) went to the polls. The 30% is an overall consolidated figure.

Marvel Wins "at Home." Dr. Marvel, who was running for a second term, was the only candidate of the six who carried his own district. That's the Township's District Ten, in the Dudds Lane, Bertrand Drive, "eastern Shadybrook" section. Dr. Marvel received 177 votes here, and his running mate George Hill, 151.

Dr. Marvel's top district however, was District Six, a diversified section including Braeburn and Leabrook, and the small homes on Clearview, Doran and Harrison Street, North. The second highest candidate in this district was Mr. Fitzgerald with 119, but Allen was close with 112. Mr. Hill received 92.

In District Four, home plate for both Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Allen, the victors were Dr. Marvel and Mr. Hill. Neither Mr. Hill nor Mr. Allen carried any districts.

Mr. Fitzgerald's strongest district was Three, where he received 168 and Mr. Allen, 163. Dr. Marvel tallied 12 here, and Mr. Hill 41. District Three is a strong University district, incorporating the junior faculty apartments on Faculty Road, incorporating housing on Broadmead, McCosh and "the Project."

Mr. Fitzgerald also carried District Nine with 156 votes, but he was only two ahead of Dr. Marvel. This is the Riverside area. Mr. Hill's district, Voting was heavy here: Mr. Hill received 149 and Mr. Allen, 142.

Where CARES Scored. In both Borough and Township, the two districts inhabited largely by black voters went with the CARES candidates. In the Township's District One, Dr. Marvel and Mr. Hill received 47 and 46 respectively, to 32 and 29 for Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Allen. The district also includes many of Princeton's Italian families.

In the Borough, District Six, including John and parts of Witherspoon, Mrs. Hunter polled 46 to Mrs. Fox's 24.

But the victor, Mrs. Fox, did not carry her home district. She lost Seven, the Wiggins/Vandewater Green area, to Mrs. Hunter by 41 to 31.

And in her own District One, bowed to Mrs. Fox, who had 161 to her 39. Mrs. Fox's strongest district, "One" is a combination of the University and Seminary residents along University Place and Mercer, and the Gold Coast voters of Hedge and Armour Road.

The second Gold Coast district — Eight — also gave the nod to Mrs. Fox. She received 110 to Mrs. Hunter's 69.

Mrs. Hunter's strongest lay in Districts Three and Four, which stretch eastward from Moore to the west side of Snowden, and include Hamilton, Fisher, Erdman and the "tree" streets of Chestnut Pine, Maple and Linden.

Accurate Forecast. After the election, the Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald made a startling break with the usual victory state-ment tradition by smilingly extracting from his briefcase the judge is both judge and prosecuting attorney, and usually there is no defense attorney to say "I object!" Mrs. Hammond says.

ACLU Plays The Field

State law requires a recording system in the municipal courts of towns with more than 10,000 population. Sometimes—but not in Princeton, the ACLU emphasizes—the judge will tell the clerk to turn off the recorder and while it's off, will say "I know you're guilty—now, let's get on with it." This is the kind of action an ACLU court-watcher would look for. The watcher would also see whether the defendant is told his rights, and whether the court has told him what he's charged with.

Fifty Members Here. ACLU organization charts divide the membership into various committees, sometimes one-man committees. Academic Freedom, Freedom of Expression, Religious Freedom are a few. Princeton members of the Mercer County branch—and there are about 50—have named an "office" here since last fall. Actually, it's desk space in the Fund for Peace Education quarters, 163 Nassau St. There's a telephone 924-4160 and the questions come in.

Another Princeton staff investigator, Mrs. Sherrie Dobrott, talks about some of the calls that come through.

"Kids will call to ask about drug problems," she begins. "They were arrested for possession of marijuana, perhaps, and they think it was illegal entrapment because they were trapped into selling it to an undercover agent. Well, this isn't illegal; the narcotics agent has a perfect legal right to do this."

"But there are so many charges of illegal searches and seizures—we can't possibly handle them all!" The local ACLU group has fed to state headquarters information on cases of alleged harassment of youths with long hair by state police.

A Matter of Choice. In another case, a student in high school (not Princeton High School) was threatened with expulsion because she refused to stand up for "The Star Spangled Banner."

"Legally," explains Mrs. Dobrott, "she doesn't have to but the school thought she did. It's difficult, because laws and court decisions are constantly changing. We make a definite effort to get speakers to address student groups to tell students what their protest rights are. And high school principals aren't sure about rights, either."

(In the case of the high school girl, apparently the principal wasn't trying to expel her for not standing up, but for disobeying his order. This case is now before the State Department of Education's Division of Controversies and Disputes.)

Emergency situations don't often come to the ACLU, but Mrs. Hammond recalls vividly one that did. She received two phone calls from a Trenton motorcycle gang called "The Breed." They protested that no bar in Trenton would serve them, and they claimed a violation of their rights.

"They told me they were feeling violent and something might happen if they weren't served!"

State Alcoholic Beverage Control laws against discrimination just don't apply in cases like this. An ACLU lawyer recently shook his head, and said "The Breed" didn't have a leg to stand up to the bar on.

"We give an answer to who ever calls if we know the answer," the investigators say. "If we don't, we find out."

Institutions a Target. Outside the boundaries of Princeton, the Mercer County ACLU is deeply concerned about conditions in the Mercer County Jail, the County Workhouse and Trenton State Hospital, particularly the Women Wing where the criminally insane are quarantined.

Prisoners write to ACLU of officials. Frequently, detailing their cases and asking how they can get out. Frequently they charge indiscriminate use of electric shock treatment.

"Do they get shock treatment for therapy, or as discipline?" We want to find out. There's nothing we can prove, or we'd be in court," says Mrs. Hammond. "We forward many of these letters to the Public Defender's office."

Mercer County members plan to send a detailed questionnaire to the warden of the Mercer County Jail as part of an investigation of prison conditions.

"It's a tax-supported public facility," Mrs. Hammond points out, "and we should be entitled to ask questions."

Communist Scarecrow. An old specter in ACLU history is the accusation that the organization is a Communist front group. (A letter in last week's TOWN TOPICS repeated this charge.)

Investigators cite the current, if aborted, defense of the men accused of BKK cross burning, and the long-ago defense of Nazi George Lincoln Rockwell in refutation of the charge.

Until a few years ago, no member of the Communist Party was allowed to join the ACLU, but that restriction has been eliminated as contradictory to ACLU principles, say officials of the organization.

Stephen Nagler, who runs things in the state ACLU of offices, puts his own views this way. "I'd say we're as Communist as the Bill of Rights."

DISCRIMINATION—based on race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status in the sale or rental of houses or apartments is illegal. TOWN TOPICS assumes that it adheres to the law. For information contact: Jodi Princeton Commission on Civil Rights, 4 Green St., Princeton, N.J., 924-1210.

TOPICS Of The Town

PARK HERE

Lots of Spaces! That's what Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week — lots of spaces around town, all day long, too, that aren't being parked in. You're welcome to have your own Easter-egg hunt. Just be sure you put the penny in when you find your treasure.

All-day meters will be changed Friday from Tulane West to William Street and the switch will take effect Monday. This means that all day parkers who've been using the Tulane meters must now go elsewhere if not to William Street, then to some of the places in the Trinity Church yard that aren't being used, or to some of those new meters on Lower University Place.

"Best bargain in town," the mayor grins when he talks about the University Place slots, "12 hours for only 36¢!"

The Borough engineer's office is making an in-depth study of parking around town to ferret out places where new meters might go, and to see where present meters aren't being used.

Overnight parking—banned in the Borough—will be part of the study, too, Mayor Cawley said.

"We're not anxious to remove the ban from most streets," he warned, but he acknowledged some hardship in lower-income areas where houses don't have driveways that can shelter a car overnight.

The Borough will have a hearing and citizens will be invited to express their views on overnight parking bans before action is taken, he said.

CAR RAMS BEAUTY SALON
On Nassau Street, Two cars left Nassau Street late at night in separate and somewhat spectacular single-car mishaps. There were no injuries in either case.

John W. Ware, 56, of 93 Birch Avenue, has been charged with drunken driving, after his car left the road, Sunday at 6:55 p.m., and rammed the west side of the Anthony's

Second Recycling Pickup This Saturday

The Conservation Coalition's second Saturday morning collection of aluminum, glass and paper will be held this week from 9 to 12 noon at the Student Parking Lot off Faculty Road.

Contributors to the recycling pickup can display their support of the coalition, if they like, by having the organization's new symbol in wash-proof forest green stenciled onto any clothing item that is suitable for the silk screening process. For a contribution of 25¢ per stencil, volunteers will put the symbol on a T-shirt, jacket or scarf.

Experiences gained from the first drive in March has led to a new plan for keeping cars moving, and the coalition urges members to follow directions. This month there will be two separate reclamation areas with two lines of traffic feeding into each one. Volunteers will unload cars as rapidly as possible and drivers and passengers are asked to remain inside.

A steady flow of traffic is also important, because the coalition is again complying with a request from the Township Engineer to find answers to questions of interest on Princeton government.

The coalition must also request that volunteers who will be working at the parking lot on Saturday be at least 12 years old. The assistance of younger children was outstanding last month, but the hazards were far greater than had been anticipated, the coalition reports. It advises those younger to help by soliciting more recyclables around town, their schools and neighborhoods, and enlisting their parents to drive these in on Saturday.

House of Cailloues building at 434 Nassau. After being charged by Ptl. David Alston, Mr. Ware was released in $100 bail to await a hearing April 19 in Borough court.

At police headquarters, Mr. Ware reported that "I thought I saw the headlights of a car right in front of me and I swerved to miss it." Ptl. Alston's investigation revealed that the Ware car after jumping the curb, knocked down a mail box, continued on and struck the building located on the corner of Harrison and Nassau. No one was in the building at the time.

The car pushed in a picture window and knocked down a small brick wall before coming to rest. Ptl. Alston is continuing his investigation.

Levels Iron Fence. Nikolaos A. Maltabes, 27, 46 Park Place, was charged with careless driving when his car went out of control on Nassau Street early Saturday morning and ended up on the lawn of the John McLean House on university campus.

Police report that Mr. Mal-tabes was turning left onto Nassau from Palmer Square when his car steered right and glanced off a pole near the First Presbyterian Church. It then continued on for 42 feet and struck an iron fence and hedge adjacent to the church. From there, it traveled another 60 feet before coming to rest on the McLean House lawn. Eighteen feet of fence was damaged, police said. The driver was accompanied by his younger brother, Theodore, 23, at the time.

The complete front end and both sides of the car were damaged. Police judged the 1968 sedan a total loss.

SEARCH TO CONTINUE

For Drugs on Campus. Borough police plan to continue their investigation which began early Monday morning, into alleged drug activities on the Princeton University campus. Lt. Michael Carnevale said Tuesday.

Lt. Carnevale headed a five-man police unit, which, armed with a search warrant signed by Borough Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., conducted a search on the campus at 8 a.m. Monday. No arrests have been made as a result of this initial investigation and Lt. Carnevale declined to say if any were planned in the future. He did acknowledge that the investigation began as a follow-up to an armed robbery on campus on March 20.

Joining Lt. Carnevale in the investigation Monday were Detective Timothy Huizing, Sgt. John J. Bellow, Ptl. Anthony Rainone and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt. They were joined by Allan N. Kornblum, director of security at the University, and by James M. Kopliner, Mr. Kornblum's assistant, of the police 20 minutes before the start of the investigation.

Lt. Carnevale also declined to reveal where the investigation took place or if anything has been confiscated by the police. However, the campus newspaper, The Daily Princetonian, reported that "three smoking pipes, a small jar of an unknown substance and a small quantity of material described as vegetable matter" had been taken from a campus room by the police. The paper quoted Mr. Kopliner as saying that the articles had been sent to State Police labs in West Trenton for analysis.

The armed robbery that triggered the investigation took place at 9:22 p.m. on March 20. Police said that the victim, who they identified as Andrew T. Wilson, a junior, was alone in his room at the time.

Two young men, armed with small caliber pistols and wearing ski masks, reportedly bound and gagged Mr. Wilson and left him lying on the living room floor while they ransacked all the bedrooms in the six-room suite.

Taken, police said, were about $25 in cash, Mr. Wilson's. — Continued on Next Page

Changing of the Guard

Look, here's April
 At the door!
 (That's March, departing
 With a roar.)

March roared last weekend, when Princeton winds gusty to 30 miles an hour or more, but actually, the month came in and went out like a lamb. The lamb, however, was a little on the cold side — temperatures for the last two weeks have been well below normal.

April, at the beginning, will be a good thing. Thursday and Friday will provide pleasantly mild temperatures and sunshine, but as the thermometer moves up, chances for showers increase. They are, the Man said, again a week-end possibility.

wallet, a camera and several other small items with a total value of about $150. No drugs were stolen, police said. Lt. Carnevale did not discount the possibility that the robbers may have been students.

PROTEST MARCH PLANNED

Coming this Saturday, Mothers on welfare from cities across New Jersey will lead a march for social justice from Trenton to Princeton on Saturday.

Cosponsors of the march are the New Jersey Welfare Rights Organization, the United Farm Workers, Organizing Committee of New Jersey and New Jersey SANE. They have planned the march in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King, who died three years ago on the 4th of April. To carry on the struggle in which Dr. King was engaged at the time of his death, the participating groups will protest welfare cuts proposed by the New Jersey State Assembly (in Assembly Bill A 1370) and the governor's proposal of a "rent grant" of $100 to welfare recipients. In addition, the march will call attention to the plight of migrant workers in the fields of southern New Jersey and to the continued drain to tax money by the war in Vietnam.

The march will begin at the State House in Trenton at 10 a.m. and will pass through Lawrencetown to Princeton, where a rally will be held at the governor's mansion at 3 p.m. An anti-racist and Chicago Conspiracy defendant, David Dellinger, will take part in the march and will speak at the rally.

... IN TOWNSHIP HALL

Meeting is Monday. A disorderly persons measure and a civil disturbance ordinance will both be up for public hearing next Monday when Township Committee holds its 8 p.m. meeting.

The civil disturbances ordinance was recommended by the Mercer County prosecutor and the disorderly persons amendment is designed to bring the Township's current ordinance in line with constitutional requirements. It was prepared by the American Law Institute.

Two other ordinances — one banning parking on the east side of Walnut Lane from Guyot to Valley, and the other approving The Great Road widening, will also be up for public hearing.

If the Township Planning Board completes work on the measure, Committee may have the ordinance on new requirements for off street parking.

The Township's Traffic Safety Committee differs with Borough Council on Harrison Street speed limits, and Committee plans to introduce an ordinance evening up several 25 and 30 mile zones to an all-over 35 m.p.h. At its last meeting Borough Council turned down the state's request for an adjusted speed limit on Harrison.

State surveyors examined the length of Harrison before making the request. The street traverses Township, Borough and West Windsor and is in part a county road.

A LOT OF NOISE & ODOR

But Little Danger from Gas Leak. It sounded like a jet flying overhead and the smell of gas was unmistakable but Princeton last Thursday was not about to become another Lamberville.

What was taking place was the flashing of the 30-inch transcontinental gas line that knifes through the Township to repair a small leak. Discovered early last week by a routine check, the leak was repaired Thursday afternoon.

Although the leak was located some 3,000 feet south of Route 206, the smell of gas could be detected as far away as Nassau Street. Police reported receiving about 25 calls.

A spokesman for Transco (Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corporation) explained that when the pipe is "blown" to clear the lines, it shoots hundreds of feet into the air and can be carried some distance by normal air currents. The escaping gas, which was pulled from a five-mile section of the pipe, emits a roar akin to that of a jet plane.

A parallel line was used during the repair and there was no interruption of service.

Music to Steal By

"We had an unusual larceny," said Lt. Michael Carnevale, in preface to his report of an office break-in at 20 Nassau Street. Lt. Carnevale reported that all the records of Dial-A-Rand, an agent for hand, singer and entertainment bookings, had been stolen between 12:30 a.m. and 8:46 a.m. on Monday. The victim was Charles Morton, a Princeton University student who maintains an office in the 20 Nassau building.

Police said that the office door had been forced to gain entry. The records were removed from a filing cabinet; nothing else was taken, police said.

during the repair and there was no interruption of service.

BEDROOMS DAMAGED

In Separate Fires. Bedrooms were damaged in two separate fires in the Borough on Monday, one reported at 12:29 p.m. and the second at 3:17 p.m.

In the first, fire damaged a second floor bedroom in a two-story, semi-detached home of Douglas Griggs at 10 Berrien Court. Although the blaze was confined to the one room, there was some smoke and water damage. Cause for the fire was undetermined.

No fire apparatus was needed, police said, to extinguish a small bedroom fire at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Love, 11 Shirley Court. Again, the fire was confined to an upstairs bedroom where a throw rug and part of a wall were scorched.

Mrs. Love had extinguished most of the fire herself by the time police arrived.

SUSPECT IS CHARGED
In Playhouse Holdup, Augustus V. Myer, 21, of 150 Witherspoon Street, has been charged by Borough police, with hold-up and robbery Thursday evening at the Princeton Playhouse.

Myer is currently being held in Mercer County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail. He is scheduled to be returned to Princeton April 7 for a preliminary hearing.

Myer, fleeing on foot, was apprehended by Ptl. Kerry Klink on Lytle Street at 10:20 p.m. — less than 20 minutes after he had allegedly stolen $8 from a cash drawer at the Playhouse a few blocks away.

According to police, two men walked into the lobby of the Playhouse a few minutes after 10. One went to the ticket booth and removed the money, while the other flashed a gun at a lone employee in the lobby.

From a description provided by the employee, Detective Timothy Huizing and Ptl. Anthony Ranfone, cruising in an unmarked car, observed Myer, who they said fitted the description, on Witherspoon Street near Forer's Pharmacy. His arrest by Ptl. Klink followed.

THREE SPEEDERS FINED

In Borough Court, Three Princeton residents were fined for speeding by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. in Borough Court Monday.

Antonio Guglielmi, 17, 33 Humbert Street, paid $29; Charles M. Taylor, 43, 284 Butler Road, paid $18; and Albert C. Barclay Jr., 38, 38 Evergreen Circle, paid $15. Mark Cuomo, 18, 64 Little Street, Princeton Junction, was fined $10 for picking up passengers other than at the curb.

John T. Reese, 42, 199A Ewing Street, paid two fines. He had his license revoked for 10 days and was fined $30 for leaving the scene of an accident, and he paid $15 for careless driving.

Nine in the Township, Nine persons were fined last week by Township Judge Burton Peskin.

For speeding 56 in a 25-mile zone, Hugh W. Downing, 27, 36 Bank Street, was fined $35. An unlicensed driver charge cost Frank D. Longenberger, 52, of RD 4, $40, while Kevin T. Baine, 21, 172 Little Hall, Princeton University, paid $6.

BASH PLANNERS: The American Civil Liberties Union "bash" (to raise funds) will be held this Friday. Working over plans for the event are Mrs. Sheldon Hackney (left) and Mrs. Harold Kahn.

for no driver's license in possession.

Six paid fines of $15 each: Helen M. Simmons, 38, 145 Washington Street, Rocky Hill and Mary E. LeBent, 50, RD 1, both careless driving; Robert E. Tashingham, 33, 151 Clover Lane, and Connie J. Rubel, 28, 33 George Street, Lawrenceville, both unregistered vehicle; Meta Hirsch, 40, 380 W. Harrison Street, improper turn; and Hugh C. Burroughs, 31, 187-A Ewing Street, stop sign.

WNJT-TV TO BROADCAST

On Monday, The first day of normal program scheduling for WNJT-TV, Channel 52, New Jersey's new television station, begins at 5 p.m. Monday. Test patterns and experimental program transmissions will be on the air during the preceding days.

Dr. Edward J. Mead Jr., chairman of the New Jersey Public Broadcasting Authority, will turn the switch that puts the station on the air. The station will broadcast from 5 to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday, with a Saturday and Sunday schedule of 6 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Inaugural ceremonies on Sunday, April 18, will mark the formal opening of the station. Governor William T. Cahill and other officials will participate. A two-hour show is planned. Dr. Lawrence T. Frymire, WNJT-TV executive director, has announced.

Two children's favorites will be aired this Monday: "Misterrors Neighborhood" at 5 p.m. and "Sesame Street" at 5:30.

Viewers should orient their antenna toward Trenton for a clear picture of WNJT, or add a convenient switch that will utilize a small, inexpensive UHF antenna that can be installed by most television servicemen. Another solution is the installation of a rotor.

Homes within 40 miles of Trenton should receive crisp reception with the proper antenna. If you have difficulty, contact your television service man or write to the N.J. Public Broadcasting Authority, 1573 Parkside Avenue, Trenton.

FULL AGENDA ON TAP

For Recreation Board, A junior olympic track and field program for all boys and girls 9 to 13 in the Princeton School system was one of the items that the Princeton Recreation Board was scheduled to discuss this Wednesday evening at 8:15 at its monthly meeting in the temporary classroom building behind Princeton High School.

The program, sponsored nationally by the Quaker Oats Company, would culminate in the survivors meeting for state championships June 12 in Rutgers Stadium. The department presently sponsors a similar program.

The board will also discuss further its proposed community wide telephone survey on possible new recreation programs, including evening swimming at the Community Park pools.

In executive session, the board was scheduled to iron out policy regarding individual teaching on the community owned tennis courts, an advanced diving instructional program and the merits of a tennis excursion and pro shop at the Community Park tennis courts.

CONSTRUCTION BEGINS

On New Emergency Department. Moving to catch up with its mushrooming patient case load, Princeton Hospital has begun phase one of its $1 million project for a new emergency department, designed to provide more than eight times the space now available.

Excavation operations have begun for hospital maintenance shops slated to replace older shop units now located on the new emergency department site. Construction time tables call for erection of the new shops by June and completion of the emergency department building within 12 to 14 months.

Commenting on the start of the new Emergency Department facility, John W. Kauffman, Princeton Hospital's executive vice president, stated that "our decision to begin construction at this time points up the extreme urgency for immediate expansion and modernization of this vital part of our total community health care service."

"Our existing emergency health care facilities are simply inadequate to effectively handle today's mushrooming patient case load," Kauffman said. "When the Emergency Department was established in 1963, 3,000 patients were seen during the first year. That figure more than doubled by 1965, reaching a 7,000 annual total. Last year, we cared for 21,000 patients. We estimate this number will climb to 35,000 by 1975."

Providing some 6,329 square feet of floor space, as compared with the present unit's 700 square feet, the new Emergency Department building will include observation beds, diagnostic x-ray, east room, and patient storerooms, emergency operating room, private examination rooms, isolation room, physicians' quarters, storage areas, police and ambulance loading platform.

Four licensed physicians staff the emergency department under a panel system set up in 1967, providing 24 hour coverage seven days a week. Dr. Thomas P. Corleyson serves as department chairman.

Cost of the new facility, including building and equipment, will be one million dollars. All of the money raised during the hospital's 1970-71 capital just concluded have

HOSPITAL PLANS SURVEY To Plan for Future Needs.

A comprehensive survey designed to determine both the immediate and long-range medical and facility health care needs of Hightstown, East Windsor and Cranbury residents will be undertaken by Princeton Hospital.

Announcing plans for the survey, John W. Kauffman, the hospital's executive vice president, pointed out that the three communities represent the fastest growing single area served by the hospital.

"A majority of these Hightstown, East Windsor and Cranbury residents needing hospital care use our facilities," Mr. Kauffman said. "For some time now, we have recognized the necessity for undertaking a carefully documented analysis of both the current and future health care needs of this area. Using the results of such a survey, we can then intelligently project our future facility and service planning to meet existing needs."

The three-community health care survey will be conducted by the Department of Planning, Hospital Research and Educational Trust of the New Jersey Hospital Association for Princeton Hospital.

TOUR SCHEDULED

Of Land Near Tocks Island.

A tour of the land doomed to be flooded unless conservationists succeed in their efforts to block construction of the Tocks Island Dam across the Delaware River has been scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday. An invitation to the public to take a self-guided auto tour through the threatened area in the upper Delaware Valley has been issued by the Southern and Northern groups of the New Jersey Sierra Club.

Tour information will be available throughout the two days at starting points at both the northern and southern ends of the tour. In the south, the starting point will be Worthington State Park on Old Mine Rd. The northern starting point will be between Montague and the Delaware River on Route 206.

"This may well be the last chance for many New Jerseyans to see the lands, among the most scenic in the State, which will be destroyed if construction starts as scheduled this May on the Tocks Island Dam," said Thomas G. Southerland, Jr., president of the South Jersey Sierra Club group.

The Sierra Club, a conservation organization, is among the 15 organizations making up the Save-the-Delaware Coalition, which is sponsoring the tour.

"When the Tocks Island Dam was authorized eight years ago, it was supposed to cost $90 million. Now, just as many Americans are becoming increasingly anxious to preserve their environment, projected costs have grown to $235 million," Mr. Southerland pointed out.

"We're hoping that citizens throughout the State will join us on this pleasant springtime tour. Then, we hope, when they realize what is about to be destroyed, their anger will lead to a delay in planned construction and to comprehensive public hearings to re-examine the entire project," Mr. Southerland added.

CONCERT FRIDAY

To Open Art Show. A concert of music by black composers, to be held at 7:30 p.m. this Friday at the Princeton Youth Center, will serve to open an art show by black artists, Rex Goreleigh and James Edwards.

The concert will include serious music, show tunes and jazz performed by soloists and instrumental groups.

Pianist Charles Pettaway will perform, among other compositions, "Yamakraw" by James P. Johnson, said by musicologists to be the source for Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

ECOLOGY in Princeton

The subject of pollution, we find, has a way of coming into almost every conversation, much as pollution itself has infiltrated almost every corner of the earth. Chatting with a Princeton mother, we were informed that she was much too busy and tired to cope with the problem that she had designated her 12-year old to do the earth saving for her own generation.

Fair enough, say we, not everyone can be an environmental activist — provided (1) the earth isn't beyond saving by the time the 12-year olds grow up to do it, and (2) that the non-coping mothers, fathers, et al, at least have the know how and desire to avoid intensifying the problems. Millions of mini-polluters equal maxi-pollution.

Some simple, basic do's and don'ts:

(a) Don't drive any more than you must; combine errands, child-deliveries, etc.; don't leave car engine running; park once, walk from there; walk or bike where possible.

(b) Use electric power only when it serves some useful purpose: don't leave lights burning in unoccupied rooms or throughout empty buildings; don't turn heat or air-conditioning higher than necessary; nor use air-conditioning in empty rooms; don't buy an essential electric gadget — human power is less costly in every sense than electric. It might help to pretend that power costs, say, 10 times more than it does. At our rate of consumption, it soon may!

(c) If you must spray, use oil, Pyrethrum, Rotenone, Sev-in or Malathion; do not use any persistent chlorinated hydrocarbons: DDT, Aldrin, Endrin, Chlordane, Dieldrin, Heptachlor, Lindane, etc. Best of all: organic gardening. Ladybugs and Praying Mantids!

We recommend "Organic Gardening and Farming" magazine, published by Rodale Press, Emmaus, Pa. Ladybugs and Praying Mantids egg clusters can be ordered through: Bio-Control Co., Route 2, Box 2387, Auburn, California 95603.

The New Jersey Department of Nassau Street, has information on their use and effectiveness. (d) If you fertilize, use organic, not chemical, fertilizer without pesticides or herbicides in it. "Cides" in lawn fertilizer kill the soil along with the crabgrass. Do not over-fertilize — it weakens the grass and increases the amount of runoff into watershed areas — and try not to fertilize before a heavy rain.

(e) Do not use disposable products when re-usable ones will do, i.e., use sponges in place of paper towels, cloth diapers instead of disposables, cloth napkins instead of paper.

(f) Do not use disposable products when re-usable ones will do, i.e., use sponges in place of paper towels, cloth diapers instead of disposables, cloth napkins instead of paper. Paper towels are easily tossed in the washing machine, stretched flat on dryer to dry — (no ironing), string or canvas shopping bags instead of paper (or reuse paper ones until they give out.)

(g) Use no phosphate detergents or soap and washing soda. While probably not the only cause of eutrophication (filling in with algae) of lakes and rivers, phosphates are a major factor.

(h) Use white paper products, not colored. Dyes used in manufacture are major sources of river and stream pollution.

Wetlands: Time is of the essence. It cannot be said too often that wetlands are not wastelands.

In the words of the N.J. Wetlands Act of 1970: "This area protects the land from the force of the sea, moderates the weather, provides a home for waterfowl and for two-thirds of all our fish and shellfish; and assists in absorbing sewage discharged by the rivers of the land." The Act includes the provision "within two years of the effective date of the act (Nov. 5, 1970), to make an inventory and maps of all tidal wetlands. . . ."; and therein lies the hook.

This provision allows plenty of time for developers to plan, dredge, fill and build; and in many areas they are taking advantage of it. To plug this time gap, the mayor of Brick Town in Ocean County is asking for state action by declaring his town an ecologically critical area. We strongly suggest that any Princetonian who cares about any of the aforementioned contributions of the Wetlands write Governor Cahill, supporting this action not only for Brick Town but for all threatened New Jersey wetlands. Once gone, tidal marshlands, with their delicate ecological balance, can never be restored.

Newspapers Should Not Be Thrown Away! In "The User's Guide to the Protection of the Environment," an indispensable $1.25 paperback aide to being an environment-protecting consumer, Paul Swatek reports: "Since one ton of newsprint represents about 17 trees, recycling a stack of newspapers about 36 inches high saves one tree. Recycling a ton of newspaper also eliminates a major portion of the pollution associated with producing new pulp."

One survey shows that, at our present rate of consumption, by the mid-1980's there will be more trees cut annually than will be reseeded. For the gardeners among us there is a personally useful way to recycle newspapers — using them for mulch.

This controls weeds and some garden pests, regulates soil temperature and moisture and improves soil texture by creating humus. Papers can be: (1) laid out in varying thicknesses of unfolded sheets, leaving space for planting rows or punching holes through the paper; (2) shredded and placed on beds; (3) used as liners under a thin layer of pure eye-pleasing material (peat moss, wood chips, soil, etc.); or (4) buried with your garbage to form compost. Added incentive for recycling — newspapers make up more than 50% of all municipal refuse collected in the country.

Letters To Be Written By Those Whom It May Concern (all of us, we hope). (1) High speed ground mass transit systems are essential to reduce air pollution and provide employment. Governor Cahill has made some good moves in this direction. Let's encourage and support him.

(2) According to Senator Williams, 90% of the sewage sludge poured into U.S. coastal waters is dumped off the Jersey shore. He and Senator Case have called for federal legislation backing Jersey officials' demands for banning of ocean dumping of sewage by 1975, until then limiting it to selected sites 100 miles out to sea. Letters backing them are in order to the two New Jersey Senators and President Nixon.

Suggestions Are Sought by an enterprising teacher in the Middle School, multi-age sections for ecologically oriented activities for her eager group of young. We'd like to hear from any reader who may have an idea for projects to help keep these excited, curious and energetic kids involved in the environment scene.

Remember Recycling Day on Saturday (help decrease Princeton's daily haul of 50 tons of trash) and the "See For Yourself" Tocks Island Dump Area Days on Saturday and Sunday. This is a huge, expensive and controversial project; it is highly important that every New Jersey taxpayer understand what is involved. — Pat Light

Forthcoming Walking Guide to Princeton Tells You Where to Go

"... a town whose people live it devoutly and estimate it hourly, prides it fiercely and criticizes it coolly, a community."

That's the way Princeton looks to Cynthia Gooding, usually known for her folk singing, but soon to be known as a combination historian guide with the forthcoming publication of her book, "A Princeton Guide."

Designed as a series of walking and driving tours, the guide explores Princeton historically as well as geographically. It is interesting to people who live here, as well as to visitors, because it pokes around in parts of town not usually covered in the standard histories, and it contains the occasionally tart comments of its re-researcher-author.

"A Princeton Guide" is to be published by The Middle Atlantic Press of Somerset on April 16. On Saturday, April 11, there will be a reception from 2 to 5 at Bainbridge House in cooperation with the Historical Society of Princeton, to mark publication of the book.

Miss Gooding, the author, and Mercedes Rogers, who has done the imaginative black and white photographs that illustrate the guide, will be present to autograph copies of the book.

Two Editions Planned. The 173-page volume will be published in two editions, a hard-bound one for $10, and a paperback at $4.75.

The Guide has several ties to Princeton besides the fact that its author lives here. Stringfellow Burr has written the Foreword. Mrs. Cary T. Beecher edited the manuscript and graphic artist Charlotte Carlson prepared the maps. All are Princeton residents.

"Walk I" starts on Nassau Street, "the most ancient monument in Princeton." The walker will learn that traffic has always been a problem, and that in 1840, "strenuous efforts were made to keep people from driving herds of cattle through town on the Sabbath."

The out-of-towner will learn that "determined city planning and zoning" has maintained "a singularly non-American charm" for Nassau Street. Miss Gooding believes that "such strictness is possible because the town's financial business is not dependent on commerce. The real businesses of Princeton are education, religion and research."

Heading North. "Walk I" goes down Witherspoon Street, describing the founding of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church "against the will of the black people," and quoting an early 19th-century writer who wrote with some dismay that because of the abolition movement, "the prejudice of the lower classes of whites against the blacks has become exorbitant and inhuman."

The stroller, continuing down Witherspoon, will find that behind Mt. Pisgah Methodist Episcopal Church on Maclean are headstones in what used to be a small graveyard. The cemetery across Witherspoon was racially segregated for many years.

The second "Walk" ranges from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church to Marquand Park. The tokens of upper-class life are all about. Miss Gooding writes, "wide lawns, fine gardens, well-tended old trees, large quiet houses from which you see people go out as seldom as you see people go in."

On this walk, the tourist can see 15 University Place, where F. Scott Fitzgerald lived as an undergraduate, and learn a few stirring facts about the doughty Commodore (Robert Stockton, who built "One Bayard Lane." (He invented Fish House Punch, among other accomplishments.)

The Commodore's ancestor, Richard the Signer, is also described in colorful detail, and there's a nod bit about the Stocktons' "Mormon," possibly the best known house in town. A riot at the College of New Jersey (Princeton) in 1807 caused the suspension of 123 students, who had crashed doors and windows in merry abandon until townspeople were called to help disperse them—that's part of the history of Princeton University and of the founding of Princeton Theological Seminary in 1811.

Around the Campus. "Walk III" covers the University campus. The author provides as detailed a description of the campus as anyone could find outside the services of the University's own Orange Key Guide Service.

In "Walk IV," the owner visits St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church and learns something of the arrival of the Irish in Princeton and the difficulties, during the Civil War, between the Princeton's Irish and Negroes.

The newer University buildings, like the Judds in Cage and Yamasaki's Peyton Hall, are covered in this tour, also.

Then the Guide climbs behind the wheel and takes a four-mile tour of the area around the Princeton Battle field, pausing at Stony Brook and "Drumthwacket" and the Graduate College. The difficulties of the difficulties of getting along with Woodrow Wilson, are an informative part of this tour.

In Drive II, the tourist learns about the silkworm project and the "Tree Streets," the location of the largest sycamore in New Jersey, and the location of John Harrison's store.

The Trolley's Ghost. Drive III follows "roads so primitive they haven't even got a white line down their middles." It explores the old trolley right of way, The Great Road and Province Line, with a nature walk along Tenacre's "Discovery Trail."

The final Drive makes a wide swing from Herrontown Woods all the way around to Alexander Street's Sredman Houses, encompassing both the Walker Gordon Rudolphson store to be dismantled and the house at 14 Alexander where T. S. Eliot worked on "The Cocktail Party."

Topics Of The Town

Soprano Frances Gouding will sing the "New Song Cycle" by Margaret Bonds, based on "Three Dream Variations" by Langston Hughes.

The Black Souls, a jazz trio of Princeton University students, will also perform. Jazz composers represented in the concert will be John Coltrane and Benny Carter.

Those who wish to attend the opening night concert are asked to make reservations at the Youth Center, 924-0996.

FETE SEEKS ITEMS

For Auction, The Hospital Fete, set for June 12, has begun house to house solicitation for items for its auction, a popular attraction every year. The auction committee likes big items: furniture, rugs, silver and brass items, gardening equipment, automobiles, boats, pictures and the like.

Those with something to donate should call Mrs. Philip Garland, 432-7755, or Mrs. Richard W. Holsinger, 924-3968 for pickup or additional information.

The Children's Committee has requested contributions of used and new toys, books, dolls and games. These may be left at the YWYMCA on Avalon Place or arrangements to have items picked up can be made by calling Mrs. Peter Viehbig, 924-9546 or Mrs. Michael Karim, 924-6001.

Mrs. R. L. Bull, 924-7035, and Mrs. Richard W. Strazza, 924-7703, ex-chairmen of the Food Committee, invite anyone interested to sign up for gourmet casserole cooking. There are over six recipes available, standard containers furnished and all they need are good cooks.

Lane of Shops. The Lane of Shops offers more opportunity to help with the Fete. Fabric Shop headed by Mrs. William B. Over, 465-0881, want remnant's, trimmings, patterns in good condition, sewing books. These can be left in the room upstairs at Clayton's, Palmer Square; Leona's Fabric Shop, Rocky Hill, or telephone Mrs. Bower.

The Play Market sponsored by the Hospital Aid Committee collects smaller items: brooches, ribbons, glass, small kitchen objects, figurines, jewelry and white elephant stuff, under the direction of Mrs. Albert J. Stover, 924-1536.

The new shop this year is The GOLF'S Tour. Donations of funds that require no registration, such as rebuses and puzzles of all kinds, would be welcome. Telephone Mrs. George Ferguson 924-8481 or Mrs. Edward McCake 924-6122. Second Time Around seeks clothing such as beach wear, sweaters, sports wear, fur, hats and evening wear, plus sports equipment, books, adult games, camping gear, bar accessories and hobby equipment. Call Mrs. Robert C. Farrey, 924-9134 or Mrs. John P. Hoff, III, 924-6543.

Goheen Years "Superlative," Daily Princetonian Says

(Reprinted from The Daily Princetonian, March 29, 1971)

Historians attempting to evaluate the tenure of Princeton's 16th president will most likely be hampered by the sheer quantity of material with which they shall have to deal. Robert F. Goheen '40 has been a superlative example of what a university president should be.

Visitors to the campus see numerous monuments to the president's success on the simplest level — that of a builder. During his office the campus' physical plant has been expanded by two dormitory quadrangles, the Princeton Jun-

Accompanying these changes has been recognition that the university's responsibility to its students does not end with classes. This has led to the establishment of university social facilities, development of athletic and non-credit academic programs, and a general concern for the "quality of life." If painfully slow in achieving results at times, Princeton has made an honest commitment toward ending long standing deficiencies.

In adjusting with the university to the changing demands of society, President Goheen has displayed unique fairness and flexibility. It is noteworthy that, in a tenure running from annual "spring riots" to last spring's strike, the Goheen administration has averted the major violence that has plagued almost every other major institution.

Similarly, the university has been transformed from one governed by parietals, restrictive rules and exclusionary decision-making to one distinguished for allowing broad participation of all university constituencies in establishing university-wide policies. Once-unobtainable academic requirements have been modified into a system balancing general educational goals with individual needs and interests.

In an age when ill-relevance plagues to achieve an elusive "relevance" have weakened many universities' academic integrity, President Goheen has eloquently advocated the university's continuing role as a center for the "life of the mind." New programs have been created, but with an insistence that they be intellectually sound ones, consonant with the quality of other, more established departments. The president has repeatedly been a staunch defender of the university as an independent forum open to all for the study and exchange of ideas.

In a message to alumni at the time of his appointment, President Goheen paraphrased Princeton's motto to "Dei sub numine vigemus — under God's will, we shall flourish." The Goheen years will inevitably be remembered for the brilliant execution of that promise.

Story of President Goheen's Resignation on Page 29

the engineering quadrangle, the art museum, Jadwin Cage, the math-physics complex, and several other administrative and teaching facilities. Working within those facilities are some of the nation's leading scholars, who are willing to devote considerably more time to undergraduate education than their fellows at universities obsessed with graduate level instruction.

The president, himself, however, did not take office to become merely a "building president," rather, he told alumni, he wanted to be remembered as "one who helped give added thrust and range to the work of this university."

In outlining that goal he has succeeded admirably.

President Goheen was influential in altering the composition of Princeton's student body. On the graduate level, enrollment has doubled during his term of office. Despite its small size, Princeton's graduate school has been consistently rated one of the best in the nation.

The undergraduate body has also increased, in both size and diversity. Public school graduates have moved from a minority to a majority; the university is succeeding in its commitment to open access to minority students; and, in the most important decision in Princeton's 225-year history, women are now being admitted to the undergraduate body.

to train young people as hostesses. Open to all Princeton students age 15 to 18 years, the course will be given in a private house near the high school, beginning April 22.

Mrs. Alex Vincent, a hostess at Princeton University, will teach the class, which is designed to give potential party assistants the skills and confidence necessary to gracefully assist at any kind of social occasion. Class hours are 3:30 to 5 p.m.

Interested boys or girls may call the YES office between 1 and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. YES is also sponsoring classes in office practices, held at the YWCA.

COLEY RESIGNS

As United Fund Head, William E. Coley, executive director of the Princeton United Community Fund, has resigned from his post after 11 years of service.

Mr. Coley, who has left for personal reasons, said in his letter of resignation, "The 11 years I spent in Princeton with my wife were most productive and happy and I know that I will never forget the devoted men and women who helped create my success. My last comments involve a sincere desire that the organization continue to be a success and a vital force in the growth of the area."

Seymour Mandel has been appointed acting executive director, announced Max Blumenfeld, the new Fund president. Mr. Mandel has been with the Albert Einstein College of Medicine as a fund-raiser and was previously executive director of the Mercer County Association for Mental Health and of the New Jersey Division of the Leukemia Society.

The community owes Mr. Coley a debt of gratitude for his fine work over the years, said Mr. Blumenfeld. "In the 11 years he was with us, campaign goals were met or exceeded in every year except the last, and even in 1970, more money was raised than in the previous year."

SINGLES PLAN DANCE

Computer Matching Scheduled. The Twin Rivers Singles will hold a "Computer Dance" on Friday night at 9 at the Old York Inn, Route 130, Hightstown.

All single adults are invited to attend for an evening of dancing. Door prizes will be awarded.

Questionnaires can be filled out by those attending to select compatible partners for a singles dance to be held early in May. This newly formed social group has drawn members and guests from a wide area of Central and Southern New Jersey.

NEW DIRECTORY READY

As Aid to the Elderly. A second edition of a directory with information and services for older adults in the Princeton area has been published by the Princeton Area Council of Community Services. It was announced by Nancy C. Grybek, executive director.

The updated directory includes information on counseling, guidance and health services and housing facilities. Club, cultural and recreational activities are also listed.

Two new services involving telephone contact for the elderly are described. Hotline (924-1141) is available to all ages to call in the event of an emergency or to provide an opportunity for an individual to talk freely about problems with a sympathetic, anonymous listener. If a caller requests specific help, a referral to an appropriate agency can be made.

A "telephone tree" initiated by the Interfaith Council to call elderly persons living alone daily to learn if they are well and to offer social contact is being organized by two volunteers from the Princeton Society of Friends, Mrs. Rose Schneider, 924-830, and Mrs. Harold Taylor, 466-1485. Copies of the new directory for older adults are available for distribution through the public libraries of Princeton, Hightstown, West Windsor and Rocky Hill, the Princeton Hospital, Princeton Hospice, The First National Bank of Princeton, Princeton Bank and Trust Company, as well as the offices of the Council of Community Services, 221 Witherspoon Street.

Criticism of ACLU Answered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The temptation to respond in kind to the vicious letter you published last week about the ACLU is almost overwhelming, but I will try to be informative, not nasty.

The ACLU has only one function. That is to strengthen and preserve the rights guaranteed to all of us in the Bill of Rights. The main problem we encounter is with the word "all." It is apparent that many Americans simply do not agree that all citizens have the same rights. This has been true throughout our history, and it is true today. The definition of exactly who is outside the Constitution has changed somewhat over the years, but the denial of rights to unpopular people continues.

At the risk of being repetitious let me point out that no matter how unscrupulous, "militant" or "subversive" a person's views or actions he is entitled to the same consideration of protections as anyone else. To the extent that vigilantes deny such a person his rights all our protections are eroded and we are all far the poorer. Surely in this town today red hunting and veiled allegations about subversion and militancy are not only out of place, but to be vigorously resisted by each of us. One way of doing this would be to come to the ACLU benefit Friday night at 8:30 in Trinity Church!

Returnable Bottles, Cheaper.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Comments recently made by Township Mayor James Floyd indicate that he questions how a ban on the no return bottles can be viable only in Princeton when residents could shop elsewhere.

Why? ANY returnable bottle is cheaper than any non-returnable and at the same time your car, if it would handle, is not to go elsewhere for a deposit drink.

Canada Dry in the 20 oz. bottle costs 35c. Keweenaw in the returnable gives back life on its bottle — 28 oz. (Wine & Game and Davidson's carry those and others are planning to). Pepsi's 20 oz. deposit 26 oz. cost 30c but they will deliver their returnable bottle to your door for only 25c.

Although handling returnables presents some minor problems to certain stores, many stores are willing to handle them. It is the bottle distributors who put up the real fight. Several near outlying districts are helping to again help carry returnables. We must help them.

I urge Mayor Floyd to take a positive stand — that he recognize that still the most important aspect of this is to stop the production of the billions of bottles adding to the waste pile by using reuse. Recycling is important but simply helps get rid of those not reused.

CYNTHIA A. FOX

Returnable Bottles Backed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Senator Gaylord Nelson has recently pointed out that the consumer pays four times for non returnable bottles. He pays a higher price to begin with (if a returnable bottle averages 20 trips, its cost is only one tenth of the price of a non returnable). He pays a fee for pick up to either a private or municipal collector (30 cents a bottle in this area).

Part of his local tax goes toward municipal disposal of said bottle and he pays an, as yet, unknown price for its non degradable presence in our environment. It has been estimated that the average family would have $25 a year if it received the habit of returning bottles to a store.

The bottling companies are crying the blues because the business risk they took in discharging their scrubbing machinery and tooling up to capture the market with non returnables is now beginning to look like a mistake. The best resistance that we, as consumers, can offer is to back the Conservation Coalition's proposed ordinance to ban the sale of returnable bottles in Princeton Borough and Township.

What the ACLU Really Does

To the Editor of Town Topics:
There seems to be a misunderstanding of the American Civil Liberties Union. (TOWN TOPICS' Mailbox, March 25)

It is set up to uphold our American Constitution by protecting persons who have had their constitutional rights infringed.

Use Glass, Not Tin Cans.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Princeton's efforts in recycling glass and paper products is a splendid start in helping us to move toward an economy based on reusable and consumable products. This first step that we've taken along with an increasing number of communities should help us toward a "non garb" environment.

As an individual very deeply concerned about our environmental problems, I wonder if there isn't a significant second step we should take. For a month now I've investigated the products that are available in glass containers which we can use, reuse, and recycle. There aren't many, but there are enough that I can buy most of the food items I need in jars, bottles and other glass containers.

Since tin cans are presently not in the "recycle" category, one of the positive steps we can take is to buy only commodities that come in glass containers. Subsequent use of this nature could force manufacturers to make greater use of glass and therefore provide less material for our garbage cans and more fodder for the recycle mill.

Obviously, we can't currently turn only to products packaged in glass. But, until more companies use glass, or use is found for the ever prevalent "tin can," we can buy our food in glass where we can and turn our backs on tin when we have a choice. Perhaps a clean environment may even mean we'll forego the pleasure of stewed tomatoes for a while until they do come in reusable glass containers that can be recycled. I think this kind of deprivation may be worth the effort.

ROSES and RHUBARB

By DON ALLEN

ALTERNATIVES...

I've always been an advocate of the soaking bath. A school of physical fitness as expressed in a cold shower cult. That I was warped in this direction was never more apparent to me than that summer when I was 16 and I spent two bone-chilling weeks at summer camp, on the cold eastern shore of Lake Michigan. Here at Camp Minnewaska at 6 a.m. every morning, we were summarily routed from our cots to stand at attention for floor-raising ceremonies in the half light of a Michigan morning.

Nothing ever seemed to dry out in this herb, beech, and maple forest that was our campsite. So every morning you would climb out of a warm cot and scrunch down into your wet swim trunks — cold and clammy from the day before. It was bad enough to stand shivering through a chorus of "Oh Say Can You See" (which we could — just barely); that was misery enough — but what then followed was sheer torture. From center camp we had to jog for a quarter mile through some rolling sand dunes to the beach front. Here we participated in repeated calisthenics for fifteen minutes. These exercises always ended up one way — push ups on the sand.

The upshot was that you'd get so dirty and gritty from the guy ahead of you kicking sand in your face, or from all the varied body contacts with that powdery beach that you just had to "hit the dip" to wash it all off.

On cue about 200 boys would wheel around and stampede for the water.

Now Lake Michigan, I'll avow, never does warm up. The water is so cold and the air so dank that it's a wonder to me the whole place isn't under permanent mildew. Even the sun doesn't act the same. Counselors who'd been there all summer were just furiously tanned. For a New Jersey boy who loved New Jersey summers this was certainly alien country.

Anyway as I said, on command to "hit the dip" way we would all gallop toward that big of unfriendly lake. This beach sloped so gently that you could run a half hike into the lake and still only be in water up to your knees. It seemingly took forever to get to water deep enough to support a belly flop.

That, of course, was the discomfort of it — for once under water, you came out feeling strangely warm and invigorated, but those were long agonizing moments as the entire camp splattered their way to deep water. All 200 of us, roughly, heeding in the general direction of Minnesota. You got splashed, and you shivered, and you could not submerge and end it all. Oh, how I came to hate this early morning ritual.

In later years though, the recollection of this experience has been a motivating force for me on many occasions.

Even though I know a cardinal rule for personal success is to be a "self-starter," I admit to long moments of indecision on morning mornings when I sit on the edge of my bed at 4 a.m. — preparing myself mentally for yet another trip to the flower market. To go, or not to go?

Then I say to myself, "Which would be worse?" "Go, or 'hit the dip'?"

I go!

Is that many mothers of sons will send a copy of this to Mr. Nixon and include, no matter what their ages, photos of their boys.

Speaking of the high costs of this war Mrs. Bruyn says in her letter:

"We know that the price for more war will be what it's always been... our sons. Nearly 60,000 American boys who are never coming back, another 300,000 who have come back with bleeding and broken bodies and the thousands upon thousands more who have come back with minds and spirits so mutilated by what they have seen and endured that they will never be completely healed. . . . We're sending you their pictures, Mr. President, because we think a good long look at the price that's being asked may help you to understand why we're going to boycott the product we've been sold for so many years."

With

Education, we moved by this letter; bad reprints made and are distributing them. Last Friday an attractive young man, who I learned is a sophomore at Princeton University, came to our gallery. He spent quite a bit of time browsing. While he was doing this, I spoke to some other visitors to whom I showed a copy of Mrs. Nixon's letter and explained its purpose.

When the young student had finally made the selection of the gift he was seeking for his sister he came to my desk and handed me the piece of paper for wrapping. He thanked me and started to leave. He hesitated, came back to where I sat and with a touch of embarrassment said, "I overheard you telling those people about the letters mothers are asked to send to the President. Do you mind if I take one? My sister is in town visiting me today and I'm going to ask her to send him a copy — and include my picture."

Somehow that simple request — from a young man whose life may well be one of death, we pay for in Vietnam — seems to me one of the most eloquent pleas for peace I've heard in weeks.

"And, as you know, there have been many."

Hail to the Chief!

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We would like to acknowledge publicly our admiration and respect for the three years of deep commitment and devotion with which our father, Bill A. Abrams, has served Princeton as a School Board Member. On many occasions we have consumed without deserved appreciation the delicious dinners our mother prepared to enter into heated discussions with our father about the latest issues of educational philosophy and policy under debate in Princeton.

Many letters have flown across the country bearing news of our father's latest statements and efforts to encourage the humanizing of Princeton's schools and their reform in an attempt to meet the needs of all students. We have become acquainted with and have even adopted into the W. Abrams family such fine Princetonians as Phil McPherson and John Marks because our father didn't participate in the School Board only on School Board nights, but instead he made it part of his life.

As alumnae of Princeton's schools, we are grateful to our educational system for recognizing and welcoming (sometimes reluctantly!) our fathers' creative contributions and often innovative suggestions as a School Board member and we are especially grateful to our father for caring enough about us, about Princeton.

K-Mart Vote Clarified.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to bring to the attention of your readers the fact that at the time the West Windsor Zoning Board of Adjustment voted by a count of 3 to 2 to allow a variance to permit construction of a K-Mart and related stores on Route 1, another important step was taken at that meeting.

The two Committee members who voted opposition to the variance request, Richard Walter and Robert D. Kchoe, read into the minutes of the meeting an explicit minority report concerning the reasons for their negative votes.

Since this minority report was not mentioned in newspaper accounts of the meeting, I urge concerned residents of West Windsor to attend the April 12th, Township Committee Meeting. The K-Mart recommendation should be on the agenda at that time.

TWO LOWER RATES

On Savings Accounts, First National Bank and Nassau Savings and Loan Association have announced decreases of 1/2% on interest rates on regular savings accounts, effective this Thursday.

Nassau Savings will reduce its rate from 5 1/2% to 4 1/2% per year. Walter H. Foster Jr., association president, said the reduction is the law of supply and demand at work, with the recent decrease in mortgage interest rates from 8 to 7 1/2% the primary factor in the directors' decision to make the rate reduction.

"Nassau Savings has paid the maximum rate of return compatible with prudent investment practices during its 47 years of operation," Mr. Foster noted. "These investment policies carried the association through the 1929 crash with no losses and no delays in honoring a member's request for withdrawal of funds. Growth simply for growth sake and its inherent high risk loans is to be avoided," he added.

The association has raised the amount of cash needed to purchase certificates of deposit. Details will be announced in the near future. Outstanding certificate amounts are not affected and will continue under their original terms. Mr. Foster pointed out.

First National Bank, First National Bank has lowered its rate from 4 1/2% to 4% on regular savings passbook, 4 1/2% from 5% on investment passbook, and 5% on savings certificates.

Princeton Savings and Loan Association has lowered its rate on certificates of deposit from 6 1/2% to 5 1/2% and 5 1/2% to 5 1/4%, but for the moment is holding its regular savings rate at 6%.

"We will be constantly reviewing our rate structure every month," William H. Bower, Princeton Savings president, said.

Princeton Bank and Trust has decided to make no cuts in its rates at the present time. C. Barnwell Straut, president, said the bank would be reviewing its decision regularly. He noted that the current unsettled condition of the economy made difficult for banks to determine what course to follow.

"Nobody's sure what's going to happen in the next six months," Mr. Straut pointed out. "There may be an upturn in the economy or business may continue flat."

New Jersey National Bank will also continue to pay the highest savings interest rates permitted to commercial banks. New Jersey National's rates will remain at 4 1/2% on regular savings accounts and 5 1/2% on Golden Passbook accounts and Certificates of Deposit.

Richard G. Magill, president, commented that "It is impossible to see into the future, but our intention is to continue offering the highest rates allowed unless there is some change in economic conditions."

NEW HOMES READY. At Longmeadow in Penns Neck, The Builders of Longmeadow, a tract of new homes on Washington Road in Penns Neck, have just opened their third section. Stanley Pilshaw and Lewis Kraft are now offering a selection of eight 3, 4 and 5 bedroom models ranging from $50,000 to $56,900.

All of these homes are on half acre lots, will be fully air conditioned, and have fireplaces. Contrary to many reports on the weakness of the building business, Mr. Kraft reports that Longmeadow sales during the winter months exceeded their most optimistic expectations.

More than half of the prospective new homeowners are moving from within a ten mile radius of Princeton, with some new buyers moving from home the builders have built over the past decade in this area. New home occupancies are scheduled from this week into early 1972, and 14 families have moved into their new homes already.

ACQUISITION ANNOUNCED. By Medical Enterprises, Affiliated Medical Enterprises, Inc. of Princeton Pike, has announced that it has purchased Crest Laboratories of Long Island City.

Crest Laboratories is a specialty laboratory serving the food processing, meat packing and candy industries with quality control services as well as new product research and development.

Affiliated Medical Enterprises is an independent biological research organization serving the pharmaceutical, cosmetics, agricultural, chemical and food industries, both in the U.S. and overseas. Founded in 1963, A.M.E. has shown five-fold growth in research and development contract volume in the past two years. The acquisition of Crest Laboratories is expected to increase this volume through expansion of services in the food processing industry.

JOHN DIEHL APPOINTED. To National AIA Committee. Princeton architect, John R. Diehl, 84 Clover Lane, has been appointed a member of the Resolutions Committee of the American Institute of Architects for the 1971 National Convention to be held in Detroit this coming June.

A member and Director of the New Jersey Society of Architects, AIA, Mr. Diehl received the Master of Fine Arts Degree as Lowell M. Palmer Fellow from Princeton in 1950 and Bachelor of Science in Architecture from the Pennsylvania State University in 1948 where he received the Henry Adams Award of the American Institute of Architects.

boarding record of 506 passengers on Friday, March 12.

The new record becomes more significant when compared with the total of passengers carried during the Airlines' first month of operation in March 1967. In addition, daily boarding records were set in the high frequency shuttle service which Ransome Airlines flies as an Allegheny Commuter, connecting passengers from North Philadelphia and Trenton airports to major airline schedule service at Philadelphia International.

Arthur Curtiss Retires after 41 Years with RCA

Arthur N. Curtiss retired this week from RCA after serving it for 41 years, the last three as Staff Vice President, Administration, Research and Engineering.

But since people like Arthur N. Curtiss never really retire, he will continue to serve RCA as consultant to the research and engineering functions of the corporation. He will continue to live in Princeton, where the Curtisses have a home at 332 Dodds Lane.

"And of course, I'll continue to be active in the community," he says.

"Active" in the Curtiss sense means a list of accomplishments over two pages in length, and the latest one hasn't even been added yet; he's just been named a Fellow at Rider College, one of two dozen professionals in the industrial world who have been asked to draw on their life-long interest in education and serve as Rider advisors. (Mr. Curtiss is a member of the Society for the Advancement of Engineering Education.)

He became associated with RCA in 1930, having worked for Westinghouse from 1924 to 1929, and promptly joined the RCA Victor Glee Club as second tenor. He became, quite naturally, Glee Club president in 1936.

He worked his way through the University of Pittsburgh, receiving his degree in electrical engineering in 1927. He subsequently did graduate work there at the universities of Pennsylvania and Purdue, and in Business Administration at U.C.L.A.

Came Here a Decade Ago
Mr. Curtiss joined RCA Laboratories here in 1961, and the decade of the sixties is full of what he has done for the Princeton community.

Probably he is best known for his work with the United Fund joining the Fund's Board of Directors in 1961, serving as campaign chairman in '67-'68 and as president in '69-'70. In 1970, he won the Gerard B. Lambert Award for Community Service.

But the Fund was only part of the fun. An active supporter of the Boy Scouts since he was Scout and Sea Scout from 1918 to 1923, Mr. Curtiss has been active in the Boy Scouts of America since 1955, and is now facilities chairman of the George Washington Council. He has already been chairman of the council, serving from 1966 to 1969. The Boy Scouts presented him with their Silver Beaver Award in 1967.

Concern with young people led also to the Children's Home Society of New Jersey. Mr. Curtiss has been on the board since 1968 and is now vice-president, and he is assistant campaign manager of the building fund for Princeton's YM YWCA.

A Choir College Trustee.
Since 1967, he has been a trustee of Westminster Choir College, serving currently as vice-chairman of the board and chairman of the college's Development Committee.

He's a Princeton Hospital trustee, too, and has been since 1968. He's just completed a stint as chairman of the Hospital's capital fund campaign.

On the business side, Mr. Curtiss has found time to be a member of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce ever since he moved here in 1961. He has been on the board of directors since 1965 and served as president in 1965-66.

Right now, he's vice president of the Rotary Club of Princeton, having been a member since 1962 and secretary two years ago. He is also on the board of directors of Princeton Savings and Loan.

He joined the Middlesex Somerset M.C.C. Regional Study Council when it was formed in 1967, and was vice president for the first two years.

Arthur Curtiss was guest of honor at a recent farewell party, but he certainly isn't planning to say "goodbye." The golf course may see him more frequently and one thing is sure: there will be additions to that long list of achievements.

RCA NET DOWN 43%

But Uplara Is Forecast. RCA sales and earnings declined in 1970, but the company expects improved results for 1971, particularly in the year's second half. Robert W. Sarnoff, Chairman and President, has announced in RCA's 1970 annual report. Mr. Sarnoff said a persistently sluggish national economy made the business environment difficult throughout last year.

Its impact was felt in terms of lower sales and earnings for many industrial enterprises, including RCA. In our case, its effect was compounded by a nearly 100-day strike at mid-year," he said.

Final figures placed RCA's 1970 sales at $3.3 billion compared to $3.9 billion in 1969. The year's net profit of $91.7 million was 43% below 1969, but slightly improved over earnings per share forecast. Net earnings per share were $1.56 compared with $2.27 last year. RCA's fourth quarter sales were $339 million compared to $322 million last year. Profit for the year's final three-month period was $36.3 million against $47.3 million for the previous year.

SALES UP, NET STEADY

At Western Electric, Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System, began its second century of operation in 1970 with record sales totaling over $5.6 billion. Charles R. Bergmann, vice president, has announced.

"Western Electric sales to Bell Telephone companies approached $5 billion in 1970—an increase of 21% over 1969—in response to telephone company orders for equipment to meet unprecedented service demands. Government sales were $757 million compared to $681 in 1969," Mr. Bergmann said.

He said that the cost of doing business in 1970 increased as sharply as the volume of sales. As a result, Western Electric earnings levels showed no significant change.

Net income for 1970 was $253 million or 4.3 per dollar of sales, compared with earnings of 4.6 cents in 1969. The return on average invested capital totaled 10.6 per cent, compared with 10.8 per cent in 1969.

At the company's Princeton location, a research project of the Engineering Research Center (ERC) was selected for an I.R. 100 award, as one of the "100 most significant new technical developments of the year," in the 1970 competition sponsored by Industrial Research magazine.

The award winning development is a new method for making wire for telephone cable which greatly simplifies the current manufacturing process. Unlike conventional wire forming techniques which pull metal rod through a series of dies, gradually reducing it to the desired size, the new process uses a high pressure fluid to "squeeze" the metal rod and "push" out wire of any size in one operation.

TRAINING PROGRAM SET
By PAHR, Atco Ceramics, ATCO Ceramics Corporation has been awarded a contract by the Department of Labor through its Manpower Administration program of job training.

The contract will enable ATCO, in cooperation with O.C. A.W. Local 820381, to train about 40 persons in various occupations.

The training program will be carried out in conjunction with Princeton Associates for Human Resources (PAHR), a consulting firm which specializes in manpower orientation and indoctrination.

The trainees will be from dislocated groups and will be recruited in conjunction with the New Jersey State Employment Service and other cooperating CAMPS agencies.

STUDENT IS HELD UP
Police Arrest Two Borough officers charged a 19-year-old Princeton youth and a 17-year-old accomplice with the armed robbery of a Princeton University student Tuesday night. Alan Cooper, 19, was arrested in Trenton by Lt. Michael Carnesale and Detective Timothy Hinz. A third suspect involved in the theft has not been apprehended.

Cooper was freed on $1,000 bail and will face a hearing in Borough court. The juvenile was turned over to authorities for processing.

The theft took place at 10:45 p.m. Lt. Carnesale said in a dormitory of Princeton University. Three men, one armed with a gun, entered the victim's room and stole $35 from him. Police declined to identify the student, pending completion of their investigation. He was alone at the time and not injured, Lt. Carnesale said.

Det. Hinz had spotted the trio running in a parkway on this led to their arrest. Lt. Carnesale concluded.

When you feel all these things, plus a few we haven't even mentioned, working together, you'll know you're in a machine that marries you fiercely to the road. Even on surfaces that turn other cars into giant skates.

Remember our invitation the next time the weatherman says it's going to be good and rotten outside.

In fact, since the Renault 16 handles the way it handles, the rotten the day, the better we like it.

Test drive a Renault 16 on a day you'd rather not drive your own car.

Then slide behind the wheel of a Renault 16 and see how little sliding you do after that.

Hit the brakes on a rain-swept street and the front-wheel disc brakes stop you as straight and true as an arrow.

Go into a turn and the front-wheel drive anchored down by the weight of the front engine pulls you through lovingly. Predictably.

While you're in that turn, savour the sweet, tight precision of rack-and-pinion steering. What you don't need on mushy roads is mushy steering.

And don't bother swerving to avoid any bumps. Because, all four wheels are independently suspended. So only the wheels get bumped, not the entire car.

Dr. Goheen, Resigning, Says the Job Is More Fun Than Headache

"I'd like to keep on living in Princeton — if I can keep out of my successor's hair!" commented Princeton's President Robert F. Goheen, as he spoke informally to the press on Thursday about his plans to retire from the presidency of the University no later than June, 1972.

The Goheens have a house on Orchard Circle, although they have lived, during Dr. Goheen's tenure as president, in two University-owned houses: "Prospect," and lately in Lowrie House, 83 Stockton.

Dr. Goheen explained that he had planned "long ago" not to stay in the president's office longer than 15 years. He was appointed in 1957. However, he said in a formal statement that he delayed presenting his intention to the Board of Trustees because it didn't seem right to leave while the University "was being shaken by widespread unrest, and was still in the process of developing more responsive and more effective procedures for governance."

The "upsurge in annual giving was the clincher," in his decision to retire in 1972, he stated. "We'd turned the corner on some vital programs," he said, "and I decided last fall to leave in '72."

The president's resignation was accepted by the trustees on March 19, and announced March 25.

No Firm Plans: "Not the vaguest idea what I'm going to do," he told the press. But he hopes that his future work will lie in either of his two fields of interest in art and expertise — international relations and education.

Dr. Goheen has been a sharp critic of American involvement in Southeast Asia, and he said on Thursday, in reply to a reporter's question "I don't think the present Administration would want me" in a diplomatic post.

"Teaching is my first love, and I might go back to teaching somewhere," he observed, "but not here at Princeton; I'm not sure I'm good enough."

Dr. Goheen's specialty is Greek drama, and he first came to Princeton in 1948 as a member of the classics department.

THE FUN OUTWEIGHS THE HEADACHES: That's what Robert F. Goheen said last week in announcing that he will leave the presidency of Princeton University no later than June, 1972. The 51-year-old president said he had enjoyed his job. "I am not leaving down the office because of any sense of frustration, anger, pressure, disillusionment, exhaustion, or anything like that. It is simply that I feel I have given Princeton what I have to give, that it deserves and will profit from fresh leadership . . . I believe the time has come for someone else to enjoy the rewards and fun of the job . . ."

It is simply that I feel I have given Princeton what I have to give, that it deserves and will profit from fresh leadership . . . I believe the time has come for someone else to enjoy the rewards and fun of the job . . ."

Dr. Goheen said last week in announcing that he will leave the presidency of Princeton University no later than June, 1972. The 51-year-old president said he had enjoyed his job. "I am not leaving down the office because of any sense of frustration, anger, pressure, disillusionment, exhaustion, or anything like that. It is simply that I feel I have given Princeton what I have to give, that it deserves and will profit from fresh leadership . . . I believe the time has come for someone else to enjoy the rewards and fun of the job . . ."

vealed that money is at hand to go somewhat beyond the original first-phase enrollment of women students.

He also declared that the University's budget can be balanced again "in the next few years" and that the trend of growing annual operating deficits has been reversed.

Nevertheless, he sees money as the toughest problem facing his successor, even with the possibilities of Federal and state funds.

R. Manning Brown of 50 Westcott Road chairman of the trustees' executive committee said Dr. Goheen's leadership "has enabled the University to meet changing conditions and to preserve and raise the quality of study and teaching at Princeton."

A special trustees' committee will be appointed to find a new president, Mr. Brown said. Faculty, students, members of the non academic staff and alumni will all be invited to discuss candidates.

If a new president is chosen before June of 1972, Dr. Goheen will leave Nassau Hall a head of his deadline, he said, adding that he hopes the new president can be named soon enough to contribute to the University's Princeton's undergraduate college.

Commenting editorially on Dr. Goheen's departure, the New York Times said he has been "consistent without rigidity, guided by a steady integrity of purpose."

The Times pointed out that Dr. Goheen was "qualitatively first" in opposing right wingers who tried to bar Alter Hays from speaking on campus, and left wingers who last year prevented former Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel from speaking.

Whether these recollections will ever appear formally, is a question. "I'd be a loopy memoir writer," Dr. Goheen told the press cheerfully.

Asked how he thought Princeton had changed since he became president, Dr. Goheen said he thought the University is "a little bit stronger intellectually, a little bit more exciting educationally."

He said he couldn't single out any one contribution he had made, but did feel proud of upholding "liberal learning" against all the pressures against free inquiry, and was proud of attracting a strong people to the University.

READY FOR PINTER?
"Homecoming" Is Last, Last in McCarter's repertory, that is. The Harold Pinter play will open this Friday at 8:30 p.m. at McCarter, and will play again this Saturday at the same hour and Sunday at 3 p.m. It will continue in repertory through April 23.

Mystery, uncertainty, ambiguity, the use of silence all combine in Pinter to produce an effect of unrelieved dread, even of terror.

In "The Homecoming" he presents a professor who takes his wife to his childhood home for a visit. The wife, Ruth, leaves her husband to remain with his father and his brothers as a combination sex object, mother and wife. The question is — has she become a victim, or is she a victor?

Pinter, fascinated by the pitfalls that face human beings who try to communicate with one another, has said that "under what is said, another thing is being said."

The critic Martin Esslin has written of this play, "However much audiences may reject 'The Homecoming' on a rational level, they ultimately respond to it in the depth of their subconscious."

Its actors portray Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, John Dickinson, Rutledge of South Carolina and all the rest. "I recommend it without reservation," wrote Clive Barnes of the New York Times. "It is a musical with style, humor, wit and passion. It might even run until 1976."

"HOW I WON THE WAR" Film Series Film. The satiric anti-war film called "How I Won The War" will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the theatre's International Film Series.

Made in 1967 by Richard Lester, who directed "Pulp Fiction" and the Beatles films, this British production incorporates all the anti-war clichés and is therefore a satire on war films, as well as a film against war itself.

In the cast are Michael Crawford, John ("The Beatles") Lennon and several other English stars in cameo roles.

ROCK WITH KATE

Taylor, Kate, newest member of the Taylor family to become a popular folk rock performer, will help McCarter continue its spring Folk Rock events when she comes to Alexander Hall on Saturday, May 1 at 8 p.m.

Kate Taylor is the sister of James, Alex and Livingston. She is now a popular performer in, as the saying goes, her own right. Tickets are available at the McCarter box office.

BEYOND THE FRINGE

At Intime, "Beyond the Fringe" is ten years old, if you can believe it, and Theatre Intime has decided to stage a classic revival, opening this Thursday and playing Friday and Saturday of this weekend, and next Thursday, Friday and Saturday as well. All at 8:30 in Murray Theatre.

Four young Englishmen bravely presented themselves on stage in May, 1961, with "Beyond the Fringe." They were Jonathan Miller, Peter Cook, Alan Bennett and Dudley Moore.

Intime has a slightly different cast. Included are John Amberg, Carmen Apogren, Steve Hunter, Philip Kinsman, Peter Orton and Jim Shankman.

News Of The Theatres

The director will be William Bowman, publicity director for Intime and an actor in such productions as "Moby Dick-Rehearsed," "A Man for All Seasons," and "The Happy Time."
Mr. Bowman says of his forthcoming effort, "It foams with the heady lather of truth completely unfined by mineralized morality in non breakable plastic tubes that never leave unsightly bubble ring. Festsy color that makes you nice to be near, helps to elevate this show to the level of liquid consciousness that is so poignant it floats."

PLAYHOUSE

The Night Visitor (now playing) is an exceptionally good thriller.
British actor Trevor Howard plays a police inspector who tries to solve a series of murders, which are all perpetuated by an inmate of a mental institution. Max van Sydow, one of Scandinavia's most effective actors, is cast as the inmate. Liv Ullmann and Per Oscarsson are also in leading roles.

The film was photographed in the winter wilds of Sweden and Denmark. Laslo Benedek directed adroitly.

ed Luis Bunuel, starring Catherine Deneuve, Franco Nero and Fernando Rey. English titles. Not reviewed by press time.

PRINCE

A New Leaf (now playing) is a brisk and breezy comedy full of clear wit and belly laughs.

Elaine May is the writer, director and co-star, teamed with Walter Matthau. The story concerns an offbeat couple. He is a trifter who has spent a fortune, and spurred on by his valet, pursues a bemused, bespectacled woman who is also a millionaire.

Appalled by her person (she has to be vacuumed every time she eats!) and attracted by her millions, Matthau decides to marry — and murder her. The courtship, wedding and honeymoon are very funny, with Mr. Matthau his furious best and Miss May an incredible delight.

OLD BOTTLES

And Calico Ducks. The Now 'n Then Shop in Cranbury is tucked away in a small barn behind the Cranbury Inn. It is filled to the rafters with crafts and oddments spanning a number of generations.

There's an astonishing amount of old bottles in various colors of glass—old mason jars, prescription bottles, patent medicine bottles in deep blues and greens and blues. There are several hair tonic bottles from old time barber-shops, fancier than you'd think with hand painted flowers on amethyst and glowing blue glass.

From today's craftsmen, exquisite pressed flowers against black velvet backgrounds—an old art that has been kept alive. The flowers are in true, unfaded colors and are enclosed in simple gilt frames.

On an old cane-seat chair are stuffed dolls and toys, Raggedy Ann and Andy, of course, a matched duck and duckling in blue-and-white calico ($2), a pink-eared kangaroo with small fry in the pouch ($8).

Mrs. Barbara Flanner of Cranbury has owned the shop for over a year, taking over from Mrs. Dorothy Sonenschein, who in turn bought it from Mrs. Gertrude Gimble. A succession of interesting women who share an appreciation of old and new crafts.

Many of the Now 'n Then shop offerings are made by retired men and women, such as the miniature replicas of colonial furniture that are truly collector's items, the toy trays, the hand painted porcelain pins and earrings, the hand-made neckties, the stuffed animals and dolls.

Others are antiques, from carefully fashioned mantle clocks to old iron scales ($10) from a country store. We found a school desk and chair, a mahogany occasional table and a considerable selection of framed mirrors.

Almost everything is small and portable—so you'll find Now 'n Then a good place to shop for gifts. As we browsed around, we saw pretty little pinnies for toddlers. All are lined and excellently made ($5). Among the handmade items, a sophisticated print of olive, white and black ($8), and unusual sets of small dishes about ashtray size etched by a man who uses a knife and dental tools.

Near a wooden churn is a display of miniature animals in porcelain—swans, rabbits, owls, even a turtle. There are old patterns in serving dishes, including a set of four-sided platters. Some are valuable, some simply attractive.

From one of today's artists, hand painted note paper in rural, realistic themes, and small wicker baskets that will solve your summer tote bag problem: add a pretty hand-drawn for a liner and a ribbon around the sides. (About $3.95).

We saw an old Brownie box camera ($4); embroidered

The Trash Gobbler

Sears has said "Good riddance to all rubbish!" with its new Kenmore Compactor. It mashes trash down to one-quarter of original size.

Ask Cliff Mellan at Sears' outlet the Princeton Shopping Center to show it to you. The Compactor is the same height as the kitchen counters. It has a deep drawer that pulls out. Put your trash in the disposable bag, close the drawer and press the button. The ram moves down, compacting the trash in a quiet, rugged way.

There's an automatic spray to help eliminate odor, but best of all, one bag full equals three average size trash containers.

bbs, table silver and some very beautiful cut-glass vases, pitchers and goblets. The latter collection is small but very choice. The glass pitcher is $15; the goblets in sets of two or more are about $9 each as far as we could tell.

Cups and saucers in forgotten patterns that are still beautiful are in a small section all their own. Some are demitasse, others dinner size.

The Now 'n Then Shop is open Wednesday through Saturday from 11 to 4, and on Sundays from 1 to 4.

THE GOLDEN GALLERY

For Contemporary Art. The Golden Gallery is right next door to Now 'n Then, in Cranbury, and while the crafts shop thrives on profusion, the gallery thrives on uncluttered space.

It was opened about two and one-half years ago by Vincent Golden of Cranbury, who is with Gray Advertising Agency in New York. You find here the works of New York and Princeton area artists. The sketches of Donald Weldon of Pennington are on exhibit right now—many of them are local scenes—Stony Brook and a Victorian pavilion among them.

The Golden Gallery does a great deal of custom framing. It is becoming famous for its skill in framing needlework, particularly crewel. The gallery also has found itself doing "art walls" for offices, an intriguing development of this era in which the naked walls of new offices are filled with interesting and valuable paintings and drawings.

Vincent Golden, an artist himself, opened the gallery to "show art in Princeton," as his slim, dark-haired wife phrases it. She manages the shop and three children ages 9 and under. Irene Lawson

It's New To Us

helps mind the store.

The next exhibit will be the works of Martin Silverman. You will want to see his rendering of the story of Kitty Genovese and the frightened people of Austin Street.

The Golden Gallery has prints by George Ivers of Morrisville on view, as well as his very beautiful miniature paintings on irregular shapes of porcelain, mounted on wall blocks. His art style changes but still maintains a tone of realism tempered with gentle ness.

There are graphics—such as Ben Shahn's white dove, a marvel of healing wings and high flight; lithographs and silk screens by Wally Pfeiffer, and others.

The Golden Gallery is open Wednesday through Friday from noon until 5 p.m.; Saturdays from 10 to 5 and Sundays from 1 to 5.

HANDCRAFTED JEWELRY. At Gallery 100, the informal arrangement of wandering agents developed by Gallery 100 has resulted in an interesting collection of handcrafted jewelry, which you'll see in the gallery's cases.

A double pendant necklace made by the Albuquerque Indians is among the things brought back by Ulli Stelzner after a recent trip. The necklace accents two polished stones from the desert, irregular in shape and softly glowing.

From England, old English art nouveau molds, incredibly lovely today with their flowing lines. Made into pins. From Ohio, William Zorn's curving bracelets in brass, bright and sassy, in various widths—to be worn together. Some close the circle with a hook arrangement. ($2)

And brass ornaments for the hair, fantasies by Zorn based upon the circle motif. Some are only $5. His clip-on circles for the neck are so enchanting that the gallery keeps running out of them. Each has a small pendant. ($12)

For your favorite needle woman, the gallery has the most intriguing thumbies ever seen—no two designs alike. All elaborately patterned in silver. ($8)

We were amused by the enamel pins, some with zodiac signs, others with quaint groupings of mushrooms. The colors are contemporary; the designs are simple and delightful.

There are many quite choice pendants, some very unusual in design. Also curious little sculptured boxes to hold the day's quota of boring old pills.

Gallery 100 is open Wednesday through Friday from noon until 5 p.m.; Saturdays from 10 to 5 and Sundays from 1 to 5.

Alfred Brendel's Artistry as Pianist Enthralls

If all pianists performed as Alfred Brendel, one would hear only music at concerts instead of the acrobatics usually reserved for the second half of the program. There were no gymnastics on Monday evening when Alfred Brendel returned to McCarter Theatre to play before a Series I audience in the fourth and final concert of that series this year.

The program consisted of the "Nine Variations on a Minuet of Mozart," by Mozart, (heard perhaps two years ago at one of these concerts); the Sonata in A Major, D. 559 by Schubert; "Three Piano Pieces," Op. 11, by Schöenberg; and the Sonata in B Minor by Liszt (another repeat from the not too distant past). So, out of the four selections presented, two were rendered by other leading operatives of the pianist world at these McCarter programs within the past three years. Comparisons would be in order then, if this reviewer remembered the performances of these same compositions, but Mr. Brendel's pianism and musicianship were so compelling but he has recorded what critics still regard as the finest performance of Schöenberg's Piano Concerto committed to records for Vox, and his playing of the early Op. 11 piano pieces certainly supports that judgment.

Again, one must cite Mr. Brendel's fastidious attention to details, both linear and with respect to dynamics. His sense of rhythm is also impeccably sure.

Music, Not Acrobatics. As for the final work on the program, the Liszt B Minor Sonata, there is not much more one can say. Mr. Brendel chose to make music with the work instead of acrobatics, and the conclusion is that this is one of Liszt's best constructed pieces, thanks to this brilliant keyboard artist. The work was played with an overview for the large form, yet every motive fragment was expressed so clearly that one could follow the music easily.

Again the pedalling was perfect. No muddling of sound, so often accompanying Liszt presentations, was noticeable. One looks forward to another reengagement by Alfred Brendel, one of the most perceptive pianists of our time.

— Arno Safran

MUSIC In Princeton

ing Monday night that his renditions of both the Mozart and the Liszt rank as the citadel from which all others must challenge.

The Mozart Variations are not strong pieces. Actually the best part lies in Dupont's lovely Récitoc theme. However, Mr. Brendel breathed new and fresh life into these variations by the delicacy of his phrasing and clarity of line, a feature that was evident in all of his playing throughout the evening.

The Schubert Sonata in A Major is the later composed "Grand" sonata, not the lovely little A Major with which one is perhaps more familiar. It is filled with many marvelous harmonic changes, brilliant improvisatory passages (especially in the second movement) and a noble Finale (worthy of comparison with the great B Major Sonata first movement), but it is filled with much trivial music as well. Schubert simply did not know or feel the need to delete material as he composed. He left it all in and it sounds that way, a big sprawling piece in four long movements, that despite its inspired and tender moments, seems to go on and on and on.

Superlative Artistry. Only a superlative artist can present this kind of composition in concert and bring it off successfully and Mr. Brendel is such a performer. The piece took shape with the expressive power that Mr. Brendel infuses into his playing.

There was rhythmic variety, brilliant technical mastery, a sense of linear design, and most important, a clarity that permitted all the musical fibres to be heard. Mr. Brendel's pedalling is a wonder to behold.

The Schöenberg pieces represent the composer exploring new regions in rhythm and harmony while leading away from tonality. They are considered works of his expressionistic period and are the first mature piano compositions to come from Schöenberg's pen.

The marvel of it all is how fresh and "new" these pieces still sound. Mr. Brendel is known for his performances of the classical period masters,

PIANIST TO BE HEARD

In Alexander Hall, Robert Helps, pianist, will give a recital of contemporary music Tuesday at 8:30 in Alexander Hall. The concert will be the last in the "Department of Music Chamber Concerts" series for this season.

Mr. Helps has performed extensively in the United States and Europe, in solo recitals and jointly with various well-known singers and instrumentalists. He has established an outstanding position as a composer as well as a pianist. He studied composition with Roger Sessions, and his works, both vocal and instrumental, have been widely performed. Mr. Helps has taught piano at Princeton University and is currently teaching at the New England Conservatory of Music.

He will give the first performance of the "Quartet for Piano" at this concert. Other works on the program will be "Sonata" by Aaron Copland "Bagatelle" by George Edwards (first performance), and

SECOND CONCERT SET

By Folk Society. The Pennywhistlers, a group of six young women of East European descent, will be featured in the Princeton Folk Music Society's second major concert of the year at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, April 24, in the Princeton High School auditorium.

The Pennywhistlers, who sing in the dissident harmony typical of women singing from their ancestral region, boast an extensive repertoire that includes East European, Jewish, English and American folk songs and ballads.

Tickets are $2.50 and $2 (for students) and will be on sale at the University Store, the Music Center and Male's Book Store. They may also be obtained by enclosing a check and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Box 461, Princeton.

CONCERT MONDAY

By Madrigal Singers. Clyde Tipton will conduct the Princeton Madrigal Singers in a program including Des Prez, Monteverdi, Gesualdo, Debussy and many English and French madrigals of the late Renaissance at 8 p.m., Monday, in the Rider College Fine Arts Theatre.

In an effort to capture an informal atmosphere typical of this after dinner pastime, the ten singers will be seated around a table and at points in the program the audience may request favorites from a repertoire list.

The Princeton Madrigal Singers have performed frequently in this area, and have appeared on Channel 13 television, but their main purpose remains their bi-monthly madrigal reading sessions held at the home of Professor Fleming of Princeton University whose wife, Joan, is one of the singers.

Clyde Tipton took over the conducting of the group this year, when Barbara Lewis left Princeton. He is a professor at Rider College in voice and composition.

Mr. Tipton has conducted opera, oratorio, and chamber music extensively including the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, Chamber Ensembles at the Juilliard School of Music, Musical Amateurs of Princeton, and his own opera, "The Forced Marriage" last spring.

Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

COLLEGE CHOIR TO SING

At Lawrenceville School. The Middlebury College Choir will present a concert of choral works spanning four centuries at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, in the Lawrenceville School Chapel. The concert is open to the public.

The 62-member choir is under the direction of Dr. Emory Fanning, a graduate of Oberlin College. The spring tour of the choir also includes concerts in New York and Summit.

The choir's program will include a group of early motets, Bach's Cantata No. 159, several works from this century by Britten, Schumann, Poulenc, Stravinsky, and four traditional spirituals.

Mrs. Bruce McClellan, wife of the school's headmaster, is in charge of arrangements for the concert, which is being financed by alumni and parent subscriptions. Other guests will have an opportunity to make a donation at the door.

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN: If prediction time is here, can the opening of the new baseball season be far behind? Tony Brophy (right) and Tim Desmond of Brophy's Shoes, where the selling of shoes often takes a back seat to baseball banter, offer their choices below for the four divisional titles at stake in the two leagues.

Question Of The Week

Question: What teams do you think will win divisional titles in the American and National baseball leagues?

Where asked : Around Town.

Toni Brophy, Lawrence Township, owner of Brophy's Shoes, Palmer Square: I have to go with Baltimore and Minnesota again in the American League; they have too much. In the National League west, while Los Angeles will definitely be stronger, Cincinnati still has too many guns. I pick the Reds to repeat. In the National League east, I look for the Mets to win. I think Gil Hodges will work out a better pitching rotation to give Scavron and Koosman more rest and Cleon Jones — off his spring training hitting — will definitely have a better year.

Tony Phorne, 16 Hillside Road, bartender, Ivy Lane in the National League. I like the Mets — I'm an old Met fan — and Cincinnati. I don't like the Reds, but they have too much hitting. Oakland is an upset in the American League and Baltimore — the class of the field.

Mickey Stewart, Ewing, window washer for Princeton Building Maintenance Co.: I like the Mets . . . there is nobody else but the Mets — and the Dodgers in the National League west. The Dodgers are going to put everything together this year. The American League is tough. I like Detroit and Oakland.

Ray Fackenthal, Bordentown, Princeton postal carrier: The Mets — I was a Met fan even when they were in the cellar — and Cincinnati. Detroit fan, too — and the Twins. Cincinnati and the Twins have too much power.

Tim Desmond, 44 Laurel Road, clerk for Brophy's Shoes: In the National League east, Chicago Cubs. They've had so many years of frustration, they might put it all together again. I think the Mets were a fluke, so we'll go with Eric Banks. In the National League west, Los Angeles Dodgers. They're a young club. I think Cincinnati has a fat-cat waukee Brewers in the west — just from the way things have gone in spring practice. Cincinnati again, but in the National League east, either the Mets, Cubs or Pittsburgh could win. All have a good shot at it. I really couldn't pick one.

Eric May, Levittown, Pa., manager of Fabric Center, 25 Witherspoon Street: I've got to go with Baltimore again — too powerful — and I think Oakland might win this time in the west. The Twins haven't made any changes and they lack a little in pitching. In the National League, the Mets and Los Angeles. LA has acquired a lot of new power. Allen will help a lot; he seems to fit in with the team.

Al DeStefano, Twin Rivers Apartments, manager, Varsity Sport Shop: The Mets and Los Angeles. The Dodgers have a lot of power now, and Richie Allen won't hurt them. In the American League, the Yankees — it's time now — and the Twins.

ART In Princeton

PRINCETON ART ON VIEW

In Show at State Museum. Art in Princeton and Art from New Jersey, 1971, are almost synonymous this year. In the major annual statewide competition and exhibit at the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton, 18 of 181 works selected are those of Princeton area artists. While area artists provide almost 28% of the prestigious and interesting exhibit, nearly half the prizes and purchase awards have been given to this group.

The "Art from New Jersey" competition was begun six years ago and has become the major show of art produced in this state. Each year hundreds of entrants from New Jersey submit their work to a jury of nationally known artists, and from this group the show is taken.

This year the show is more balanced than usual in that it gives space to all artistic points of view. There is top residential, stylized and non-objective art, as well as some experiments with new forms. This is in contrast to many earlier exhibits in which the stress was on the art "fashions" of that year, with the style of the show changing as the "in" and "now" styles altered.

Graphics represent a major part of this exhibit and area printmakers are well represented. Judith K. Brodsky, W. Darby Barnard and Marissa Rossi were recipients of awards. Stefan Martin, while known primarily as a printmaker, received a purchase award for a sensitively conceived ink wash portrait of Ben Shahn.

Other area artists contributed works in a wide range of media. Oil paintings, sculpture, water color, pen and ink and a silver plated copper photo engraving were among the materials used. Thomas George, Jane Teller and Naomi Savage received awards for their works. Gregory Prestogian, Herb Steinberg, Lu Martin, Dorothy Greenbaum, Rex Goreleigh and Ruth Shaton were included among the accepted artists in these areas.

Art from New Jersey, 1971, will remain at the museum until April 25. The galleries are open from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sun. days and from 9 to 5 p.m. the rest of the week.

At The Eye for Art. Nature forms by Brigitte Coudrain are a fine addition to this printer's already large collection of interesting and unusual series. Thistles, dried flowers and other well conceived botanical shapes are presented in an interesting range of earth tones.

In each print the palette is limited with background colors using softer, paler versions of the main color theme. Muted browns and earth greens are played against delicate darks composed of finely etched lines and accents. Coudrain has placed her accent on interestingly designed space with not sacrificing subject matter.

At The Artisan. The Arts San continues to display a range of subjects and media. Hangings by several different weavers are included in the present collection.

Gladys Hixington has created sensitive and well designed work constructed of jute and rolled pieces of multicolored papers. Mrs. Hixington exhibits her weaver's skill in her crafts.

Easter Program Set

A program of works of art, illustrating themes of the Easter season, has been planned by the Friends of the Art Museum for 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 7 in the Medieval Gallery of the Museum.

Commemorative will be supplied by Professor Robert A. Koch, art historian, of the Department of Art and Archeology, supplemented by medieval and modern songs by the Magdalen Group of Princeton High School. The public is invited; admission is free.

Large patterns and size. Starch areas are played a gamut small to create exciting textural contrasts. The paper creates patterned areas which function as separate forms and play nicely against the woven areas.

A small hanging by Helen Rose plays against the larger more neutral one by using strong, vivid color and varying tightly woven areas. Easom's and Gressille by Harold Helwig are also on display at this gallery. Using both functional pieces and slabs, which are hung like paintings, Helwig utilizes the human form as subject matter for most of his work.

Multiple glazings, well drawn and imaginatively used forms, and restricted color use create interesting effects.

Several prints by Gerald Long interestingly combine silk screen and chrome mylar for stark, ultra-contrast, sensory effects. Bright, hard edged forms about shiny metallic shapes in repeated patterns.

At Studio on the Canal. Drawings, paintings and collage by Stanley Clark Reghart are on view. Mainly realistically drawn studies of buildings throughout the area, with the stress on colonial structures drawn in ink and crayon.

Studio on the Canal is open on Saturday and Sunday only from 2 until 5.

Geoff Petrie, Who Missed Ivy Honors, May Prove Top Rookie in NBA
With Geoff Petrie, the Princeton alumnus who wasn't even on the All-Ivy team in his senior year, became the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year.
He has a solid chance at it — in the long history of the NBA, only six other players scored more than 2,000 points in their first year of play. Last month, Petrie became the seventh, ranking with such names as Lew Chamberlain and Wilt Chamberlain. Injured during the early weeks of his final season at Princeton, Petrie failed to impress the coaches of the seven other Ivy colleges and made only the second team. But he had here an Ivy choice in his junior year, when he won the scoring championship.
The Portland Trail Blazers drafted Petrie in the first round a year ago, and his ability to hit from well beyond the foul circle or to drive in for blazing layups made for almost instant success. A by-product of the headlines he began to earn, even with an expansion team anchored in last place in its division — was a run on the team's yearbooks.
Ivy had here from his home state (the comes from Springfield, Pa.), as well as many in New Jersey and New York who had watched him play in college began to buzz around with requests for the books. As a new team, it had printed only a small number, and the supply was soon exhausted.

SPRING SEASON HERE
Baseball Doubleheader on Tap. Two games with Colgate will open the home portion of Princeton University's baseball schedule on Clarke Field Saturday. The Tigers, who have already won five of their first six games while capturing the Rollins College Tournament in Princeton, will begin action at 1 o'clock.
Elsewhere, the crew, the track, lacrosse, tennis and golf teams will all be involved as the short, seven week season moves into full stride. Lake Carnegie will provide the setting for the first crew races of the season when the Tiger 150 lb. oarsmen play host to Colgate in a series of four events starting at 3 and finishing with the varsity race at 4.

The heavyweight crew will defend the Logg Cup against Rutgers on the Raritan River. The lacrosse team, badly beaten in its first two games against southern teams, will run into more trouble at Ballantine when it faces Johns Hopkins, although the Bluejays have lost heavily from the squad which last year shared the national title with Virginia and Navy.
Seth Hall will open the golf team's season on Springdale with Bill Quackenbush beginning his career as varsity coach. The track team will enter the Relays at Monmouth College in Long Branch, while John Conroy will take his tennis team south for a pair of matches against Georgetown and North Carolina.

everything go right. They won their first game behind solid pitching from Hutton, despite when it counted most hitting having been outside only once before going south.
Big Rally Does the Trick. After running into a fine pitching job in the loss to Vanderbilt, they hammered William and Mary in an 11-2 romp only to find themselves the victim of a six run first in the second game with Rollins. A five run fifth erased much of the home team's lead, and a three run homer by first baseman Bob Schiffer, who brought them from behind. It was a woe to 12-11 final.
Hutton had Vanderbilt apparently beaten in the return contest, which would virtually decide the tournament. However, with two out and a runner on second, a high twisting fly eluded third baseman John Rooney in a strong wind and the tying run scored. The Tigers then went on to win in the 11th behind the solid relief work of Blevins.
The final game saw Princeton win its total against W&M to 22 runs, finishing the week with a 5-1 mark. When Rollins defeated Vanderbilt, no other team in the tournament did better than break even.
In addition to Schiffer, Hank Burkland, Paul Colburn and Doug Blake hit well. Donovan went largely with a line-up composed of Larry Hayes, substituting for catcher Bill Bender when the latter pulled a muscle; Schiffer at first, sophomore Brady Sadek at second, Huard at short and Rooney on third. To the outfield are the footballers, Blake and Burkland, who Hank Colburn in center.
Princeton goes to Philadelphia Thursday to face Temple, generally a better than average team in this NCAA district. Following the College doubleheader Saturday, Lafayette, another strong opponent, will come to Clarke Field Tuesday at 4.
How far the Orange and Black goes in the Eastern League will determine its ability to enter the NCAA Tournament here in late May. If Dartmouth or Harvard win, the Tigers could compile a record as high as 22-6 and still not make it because of the nonsensical NCAA rule which bars more than one team in a league from entering the playoffs, even though they are in different districts.

TIGER NINE TRIUMPHS
In Florida Tournament. Averaging seven runs a game scoring in double figures three times and blending that sort of an attack with better than average pitching proved a formula strong enough for Princeton's baseball team to win the Rollins College Tournament last week in warm Florida sunshine.
The Tigers took their first game in the six day round robin, defeating Rollins, 3-2, before losing their battling rights for the only time while suffering a 4-0 shutout at the hands of Vanderbilt. Then, on successive days, they trounced William and Mary 11-2, outlasting Rollins again, 12 to 11, edged Vanderbilt in the key battle, 4-3, and landed on W&M for a second time, 11-1.
While Coach Eddie Donovan had good reason to believe his team could hit (five of his six career lettermen had a combined batting average of around .320 last spring), he was sure of only one good pitcher — senior Jack Hutton. As matters turned out, the decision in the five victories went to six rather different hurlers — Hutton, Captain Ray Huard, who moved in from shortstop for a good relief job, and sophomores Bill Coppedge, John Kinne and Randy Blevins.
For the contented Tigers, it was a week that saw almost Bill Pettit Scores for Tigers.

Early in the lacrosse game with Maryland on windywindy Finney Field Saturday, Princeton was no worse than 1-1. By the end of the opening period, however, the Tigers trailed, 3-1, and were behind, 10-2 at the half.
Captain Bill Pettit a Princeton resident, got the third Princeton goal less than half a minute after action resumed, but there was nothing the home team could do about making a contest of it. The Terrapins took 50 shots to 26 for the home team.
SCHMON HOCKEY CAPTAIN
Father Played Here.
Schmon, whose father, Robert, played football and hockey here while a member of the Class of 1946, has been elected captain of next year's hockey team. A resident of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, he has played both wing and defense for the Tigers and is considered by Coach Bill Quicknabush "the best natural skater on the squad."

The Blackwell Trophy was shared by outgoing Captain Tom MacMillan, a three-year defenseman, and goalie Ed Swift. The latter is very possibly the first sophomore to win a share of the award, which is given for overall sportsmanship and leadership.
88 OUT FOR TRACK
PIS Opener April 8.
"We have a lot of quality which is good." But what Princeton High School track coach Larry Ivan isn't so sure of is whether he can distill enough quality from his 88 candidates to be a contender in track in Mercer County this spring.
Certainly, he is hopeful of bettering last year's 111 dual meet record. "We'll be a lot stronger in the Princeton this year and if some boys come along as we hope they will, we should do better," Ivan commented. He added he had the largest number out for the shot and discus in years—two events where the Little Tigers have been notably weak of late.
PIS will open its season next Thursday at Bridgewater-Raritan. The home opener will be a week later against Exeter.

Parker and Bolster. The squad will be led by two returning veterans, starting their third year on the varsity. Larry Parker can acquit himself well in any event, but his specialty is the javelin. He completed 120 points last year, events 2½ short of the record 122½ set two years ago by Paul Mazzarella.
Parker also runs the 220 and may throw the shot—"if we need it," said Ivan. If weather conditions are right, Parker is expected to exceed 300 feet in the javelin.

Bolster earned 60½ points last season as a one event man—the mile. Complicator of a fine dual meet record over the past two years, he has never been able to win the big ones, however. Another year of experience and strength may make the difference.
Returning lettermen include dashmen Phil White and Don Owens, who will run 440 and 800; vaulter Steve Woodside; high jumpers Richard Jackson and Daryl Bonner; Roland Smith, miler; and Ron Rhodes, long jumper. Boone also competes in the broad jump and Jackson in the javelin.

Candidates for the hurdles include Gary Asano, Andy Polity, Dave Riddell, Andy Bolster and Lionel Hammond Hammond, away from the sport for a year, made a name for himself as a sophomore relay runner. Ivan is also considering using him in the 440.
Relays are a big thing in divisional and sectional meets, Ivan reported, and he is already at work trying to assemble a team. White, Owens, Hammond and a basketball standout Bill Evers, who is out for the sport the first time, may comprise one team.

Conference meets will be a mixed bag affair for the Little Tigers this year. They will compete for the last time in the Southern Jersey Division.

JAVELIN CHAMP: Lawrence Parker, Southern Jersey Group 4 javelin champion with a loss of 197 feet, is expected to top 200 for the Little Tigers this spring.

BOLSTER'S YEAR: Joe Bolster, who has been running the mile at PHS longer than anyone else it seems, will return for his fourth year. He scored more than 60 points in the event last spring.
In the state meet, PHS will compete in the Group 3 bracket where it has recently been grouped according to its male student population, which has dropped.

Field Events May Decide.
With distressing frequency last year, Ivan had to watch his team lose a dual meet in the field events. Usually, it was the pole vault, the last event, where PHS had an ace. In effect, if he began each meet behind 9-0.
"We got our share of first places but we were seconded and thirded to death. We've got to win more second places," said Ivan.

Dave Froelch is expected to give Woodside help in the vault. In the shot, Ivan is looking for help from Bart Harris and Bill Alexander, a sophomore.
Tom Marvel, Dave Girk and Bill Fraser, three cross country runners, will give PHS depth in the two mile, and Dave Gendrom, Pete Ambras and Martin Willard will compete in the 440 and 800 distances where the Blue and White appears to be doing well. Mark Biroff looks good in the high jump, Ivan said.
Ivan is being assisted again by Jim Bencheil and Mel Jones.

Maybe it depends on you. When you demand a car, for example, that would ride like a Rolls but costs like a Chevy. One that would take curves like a Maserati but seats a five full passengers. ### PDS NINE SETS SIGHTS

On Penn-Jersey Championship. With eight of nine starters returning to a team, that last year finished a close second in its division, the Princeton Day baseball team has strong hopes of capturing the Penn-Jersey championship this spring.

Although it's a veteran group the team is woefully thin on bench strength — exactly one man to be used in case of injury to one of the starting nine. This is the exact number coach John Ivers had last year and he got away with it then, and is hoping to do the same this season.

First baseman Jim Rodgers was the only senior on last year's squad, and he was replaced by freshman Sam Finnell. The other eight players are back.

On the mound Ivers will gain have the strong right arm of Dave Claghorn, named to the Penn-Jersey first team last year. Junior Peter McDaniel will also start for the Blue and White and Dave Seckle will be available for use in relief. McDaniel and Claghorn will alternate at short when not pitching, and Seckle will play second.

Terry Booth, a second team Penn Jersey selection last year, will again be behind the plate. Replacing Rodgers at first will be Carl Rosenberger. He isn't needed in the outfield. Around at third is the veteran Tony Dale, a fine fielder, Ivers noted.

Carl Juncos will anchor

Harris Field Closed

Princeton High School's Harris Field will be closed April 10 to 18 to permit excavating and refurbishing. This is the first step to improve the school's playing fields which have been in need of repair for a long time.

The outfield from his position in center, flanked by Kirk Moore in right and Mark Ellis, worth or Sam Finnell in left. PDS will be a fairly strong hitting team with players like Booth, Claghorn and Jacobelli at the plate.

No better than 6-6 overall last year, the Panthers still came close to beating out Germantown Friends for the title in the Day Division last year, losing a couple of one run contests to the champions. Ivers believes Germantown will have the team to beat this year. Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, a new team in the league this season, is an unknown quantity at the moment.

Hun, which PDS will meet only once along with the other teams in the league's Prep School Division, could be the toughest in its division. The results of the two Divisions will play for the league championship in late May.

The schedule works in PDS' favor this year. It will play six of its first seven games at home, and the away games will start across town with Hun. The Panthers open their season at 3:45 p.m. Monday meeting the Princeton High Little Tigers for the first time ever.

HUN NINE TO OPEN

At Peddie Wednesday. The Hun School baseball team, 8-5 last year, will open a 15 game schedule next Wednesday afternoon when it travels to Peddie School in Hightstown for a 2:30 contest.

Hun will open at home the following day, April 8, against Perkiomen. Game time is 3:15.

Cold weather and vacation has kept Hun from engaging in concentrated diamond activity. The school returned from a 10 day vacation Monday and coach Dave Leece reported that nine days before the opener the squad had not practiced outdoors.

Leece is being assisted this year by Billy McQuade, a fine third baseman and team captain of the Princeton High School team four years ago. After graduating from PHS Billy attended Juniata College where he was named an infielder on the All Middle Atlantic baseball team his senior year.

Ziegler, Guadagno Co-captains. Heading a four man returning nucleus are Rick Ziegler, a fourth year senior, and Mike Guadagno who will co-captain the Red and Black. Ziegler is starting his fourth year as a member of the varsity and will be the number one pitcher.

Last year, Ziegler after a fine sophomore year on the mound, developed arm trouble and never pitched at all. Leece is keeping his fingers crossed that the same thing doesn't happen again. If it does, Hun is in trouble.

One of the team's weaknesses, Leece acknowledges, is lack of pitching depth. At the moment, the only one behind Ziegler is Dave Weiss, a new-c comer to the school. When he is not on the mound, Ziegler, a fine hitter, will play first base or the outfield.

Guadagno will again anchor third base and contribute his heavy bat. Hun had a reputation for being a good hitting club and Leece reported he believes Hun will be strong in that department again this spring. The main soft spot, as he sees it, aside from no pitching depth, are a couple of infield spots, particularly short stop and second base.

Two candidates up from the reserves who are vying for the two positions are Jack Petrone and Kirk Sawyer. Petrone won some action last year as an outfielder. Two other returning letter men are catcher Pete Jones and Alan Chalfoux, an outfielder. Another likely starter in the outfield is Dennis Skrajewski, an outstanding freshman in the league this year. The undefeated Hun eleven who transferred to the school this year, Greg Kafalski, another football player, is a candidate for Jones' catching job.

NO. 1 HUN hurler: Rick Ziegler, leading Hun School pitcher, will start in Hun's opener Wednesday at Peddie. He is a senior.

In short, Hun has the raw material to be a contender in the league this year, especially if the pitching problem is solved. But it won't be easy.

Leece reported that Pennington should be a strong challenger this season and that Princeton Day School has its entire team back. Germantown, the defending champion, also figures to be strong again, he said.

OPENER AT PDS MONDAY

For PHS Baseball Team. The Princeton High School baseball team will start an 18 game schedule Monday — eager to reverse last year's winless season.

The Little Tigers will oppose the Panthers of Princeton Day School on the batters' diamond, starting at 3:45. Junior right — Continued on Next Page hander Don Crosby, mainlystay on the mound for the visitors, will pitch for PHS.

In a key game, the team will open home Wednesday at 3:45 against Ewing.

Coach Harry Zoll will probably start the following lineup: Andy Beal, lb.; Nick Gaudio, ss.; George Boccanfuso, ss.; Kent Bain, 3b.; Joyce Langston, 2b.; Greg Kline, cf. and Ritchie Wilson, rf. Dave Mansue, will be a relief for a right arm, will catch.

"They won't steal against us this year," Zoll promised. "Mansue can really rife that ball." Last year, in the first two games, the opposition stole 12 bases on PHS' pitchers.

After that, the word was out and teams ran almost at will on the PHS baselines.

Intra-squad Game. Thursday, the team held its first intra-squad game, a three-inning affair. Zoll is carrying 19 players — his largest squad ever. He was just too good to let pose. Boccanfuso, Bain and Kline all rapped sharp hits in the first inning, and Zoll took looking on approvingly.

In addition to being dominated by underclassmen (Beal, Mansue and Langston are the only seniors in the starting lineup), PHS will for the first time in years field more left-handed batters than right. Beal, Bain, Boccanfuso, Mansue and Wilson all swing from the left side, prompting someone to remark that maybe this was an omen for a change in success for the Little Tigers.

One apparent weakness, even before the first ball is thrown, is a lack of pitching depth. To put it in its starkest terms, there is no one on the bench Crosby with any pitching experience.

If possessions force the schedule to back up, as it did early in the season last year when PHS had to play five games in five days, the team could be in trouble.

Barlow 10th Man. Usually the team manager, if identified at all, is mentioned only in passing.

But Zoll has so much confidence in his manager, Harry Barlow, that he has commented that "Harry could run this club tomorrow if he had to. He accepts responsibility willingly, and is the finest manager I ever had."

The rest of the schedule: April 12, Cathedral, away; 19, Lawrenceville, 20, Hamilton, away; 22, Trenton; 27, Ewing, away; 28, Cathedral; 30, Hun, away.

May 5, St. Anthony; 6, Notre Dame, away; 11, Steinert; 14, Franklin; 18, Notre Dame; 20, Trenton, away; 24, Steinert, away; 25, Hamilton; 31, Hunterdon Central, away.

FOUR PLAYERS COMPLETE

In Swarthmore Tennis Tourney. Four Princeton Junior players — Michel Glouevitch, Chris Lillie, Bill Schmidt, and Steve Tobolsky — competed in the Middle States Junior Invitational Indoor Championships at Swarthmore College last weekend.

Three reached the quarter-finals before being eliminated. Tobolsky played the final, Alan Gardesien of Wayne, Pa., and lost 7-6, 6-2. Winner of the event, Richie Gerber of Wyncote, Pa., ousted Lillie in three sets, 6-3, 6-1. Glouevitch was eliminated by Bruce Smith before he, too, was defeated by Richie Gerber, 6-1, 6-0.

These boys were part of a special tennis group last summer under the direction of Bill Cullen. Plans are now underway for a similar group this year.

Those interested in joining this special advanced training group should register informally with John Conroy who will be in charge of those eligible for the tournament group.

BOWLING NOTES

Princeton Aviation Rols 2722, Princeton Aviation of the Nassau League put it all together, as they say, last week, setting a new three-game total pins mark for the season of 2,722 at the Princeton Recreation Lane. The previous high was 2,709, set by Grover Lumber. Jerry Perpetua and Jim Shely got the lion's share, Perpetua rolling 214, 217 and 202, and Shely sandwiching a 223 between 183-198 for 694. Bill Whitley had a 299 for the best game. Also rolling on the Aviation team were Dave Burroughs and Claude Pineill.

Even more important, Aviation pulled off its feat against the team to beat — league leading Tiger Garage. In sweeping all three games, Aviation gained six points to be Tiger for the lead at 46 each. Hunkson's is in second place, four points back.

Charles Bartolino rolled 215, 206, while Don Odykde had 213. Between 283 and 200 were Ernie Hunt, Vince Tufano, Vol Fowler, Bart Davis and Santo Tocco.

No. 1's Bucky Cupples was high man in the Tri-County Firemen's League with 219. 191-175 383. George Luck of Kingston rolled a pair of fine games, 213-192. Others: Robert Bjelke, 215. Wally Brown, 214; Bob Micinski, 206; Paul Terlesky, 207; and Wes Holman, 205.

No. 3 and KFD are tied, 40-40, for the lead. Tied at 38, a piece for second place are Dutch Neck and Lawrenceville.

There were 19 200 games in the A League. Harry Kahn of Ivy Inn had two of them — 224-213 — so which he added 183 for 622; Wes Cawley of Princeton had 200-212 194 — 606.

At Hibbard, Les Gibs and Jim Kahny had 223, 221 and 219 respectively, and Charlie Bartolino of Stefaneli's had a pair: 219-202. Between 212 and 201 were Pete Fiumenore, Tony Amalfitano, Frank Cawley, Bill Penelli, Mike Cifelli, Joe Procaccini, Bob Cifelli, Bud Carter and Rick Volz.

Stefaneli and Husco, 14 points ahead of the pack, are tied for the lead. Each has 46 points.

Greg Kline and John Glanacci were high in the Blue Angel Hi-Y League. Greg rolled 158-192; John, 134-174. Ed Volz and George Reynolds had 145 and 144.

Judy Galenti combined games of 199-198-172 for a 569 series in the Business Women's League. Gail Echevarria and Beverly Kiss, both of Nassau Conover, had 183's — Miss Echevarria rolling 61 pins over her average.

Dail Forsyth had 189, Mella Crusier 186 and Dot Wheeler, 185. Rocky Hill Inn and Bucci Builders share the lead. Each has 42 points while Balesietri is in second place with 40.

SPINNERS MOVE UP
On Bowling League. Spinners climbed into second place last week in the standings of the Princeton Women's Bowling League, and now trail Swift's Colonial Diner No. 2, 2-48. Hamilton Supply Co.

dropped to third with 46.

Individually, Phyllis Boccanfuso of last-place Will's Shell fashioned the high single game of 183. Marilyn Silvestri and Kitty Thomas, both of Used Car Mart, each rolled a pair of fine games. Marilyn had 190-172; Kitty, 181-180. Hamilton's Evelyn Bailey rolled 180.

Others: Carol Keyes, 167; Marilyn Murphy, 166; Joyce Pasierb and Joan Ivins, 165. Used Car Mart rolled the high team series of 1809, Swift's the high team game of 681.

GOOD NEWS
ABOUT HOW YOUR FRIENDLY
PRINCETON BANKER
IS PUTTING HIS MONEY
WHERE HIS SMILE IS
WITH THE LOWEST
AUTO LOAN RATES
IN THE AREA.

Friendliness at Princeton's First goes more than smile deep. It goes all the way to our pocketbook. To illustrate the point, we've just lowered our interest rate on new car loans.

Frankly, we didn't lower the rate just to prove we're nice people. We did it because we'd like to have your business. Perhaps that's why we smile so much. People have been bringing us their banking business for more than three-quarters of a century. That's enough to make even a banker smile.

Stop in at any office. We can arrange your car loan in minutes. Even before you buy.
